Airline Strike Talks Produce No Results

Afternoon Meet Set For Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Machinists Union and five major airlines resumed Saturday talks broken off Thursday but made no appreciable progress toward ending a two-day-old strike against the carriers.

The chief obstacle to meaningful discussions was the absence of the union chairman for each of the five lines. They went home after Thursday's halt in bargaining sessions.

After morning and afternoon sessions, the talks were recessed until Sunday afternoon at 1:30. Until all the chairmen are on hand it is not expected that significant progress can be made. To expedite their return, help of the Defense Department was enlisted.

Meanwhile the Civil Aeronautics Board sought to ease the strike pressures by granting broad authority to other air carriers — local-service, charter and overseas operators — to fill in where there are major gaps.

Two members of the President's Emergency Board — attorney David Ginsburg and Prof. Richard E. Neustadt — which prepared a settlement proposal, issued a statement asking the union to call off the strike during negotiations.

"The strike against the airlines is unnecessary and unjustified," they said.

In this they echoed earlier comments of the Emergency Board's chairman, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who had said that "this is one case in which there is no possible justification for the union to strike."

The airlines closed down Eastern, Northwest, National, Trans World and United which, in aggregate, do about 60 per cent of the nation's air business.

The union involved is the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, which represents about 35,000 of the five lines' employees.

The CAB gave the scheduled airlines that are not on strike permission to provide as much extra service as they wish over the parts of their routes where any of the five struck airlines had been operating as scheduled service.

Since most of the scheduled airlines already are operating at near capacity, the board also gave them permission to sign agreements with the 13 supplemental airlines — airlines restricted to charter business.

These agreements would permit the supplementals to carry individually ticketed passengers and individually waybilled cargo in the unused parts of their military and commercial charter flights.

However, in the past year the military situation in the Far East has kept most of the supplemental airlines operating also at near capacity.

The CAB authorized three American-flag air carriers with overseas routes to expand their services. Specifically the board authorized Pan American-Grace Airways, Inc. — Panagra — and Pan American World Airways, Inc., to carry New York-Miami traffic during the strike.

These carriers were authorized also to operate joint flights between New York and Balboa, C.Z., and points in South America.

The board waived regulations in order to permit Braniff Airways to provide nonstop service between New York and South America.

One of the first airlines to respond to the CAB's liberalization proposal was Piedmont, a local-service operator based at Winston-Salem, N.C. Piedmont said it would run 20 additional flights Sunday. The cities they will serve include Washington, Atlanta, Winston-Salem, and Richmond, Norfolk and Roanoke, Va.

In assessing the probable effects of its emergency efforts to fill the gaps in air service, the CAB said: "Virtually every carrier is so heavily committed to its commercial and military business as to leave relatively little in the way of equipment or crews for service outside of their normal service pattern."

The board noted that some airlines have contended that it is intervening improperly, and said: "Our sole concern here is to take action to alleviate the burden that will be inevitably suffered from a strike of this wide scope."

The sources familiar with what was discussed at the Honolulu conference said the North Vietnamese are placing their oil in above-ground and below-ground storage drums in villages around the country.

There is no estimate available of the percentage of North Viet Nam's oil being so dispersed.

McNamara returned Saturday from his Honolulu conference at Pacific Command Headquarters where he got a briefing from Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp, U.S. military chief in the Pacific.

Speaking to newsmen at Andrews Air Force Base, McNamara said the U.S. forces in Viet Nam in recent weeks have been able to deny the North Vietnamese soldiers and their Viet Cong allies "the opportunity to assemble forces in sufficient size to mount a monsoon offensive."

Sources said he was referring here to "spoiling operations," by fast-moving, hard-hitting American troops.

The defense secretary credited a greater increase in effectiveness to what he called a very substantial expansion to about 280,000 U.S. fighting men there and to "the very dramatic increase in our helicopter force."

With that helicopter force, which he put at some 1,700 machines, McNamara said, "We have so increased our mobility so reduced our reaction time that the VC ambush tactics which previously led to frequent military success are now suffering severe failures."

McNamara described himself as cautiously optimistic, saying: "We have a very good chance of winning this war."

GOING NOWHERE — High-flying jets are down to earth at Cleveland Hopkins Airport, where 70 per cent of the passenger service was curtailed because of the strike by members of the International Association of Machinists. Airlines hit by the strike are United, Trans World, Eastern, Northwest and National. The strike has affected 231 cities in the United States and 23 abroad.

Russ Officially Protests Bombing Of Haiphong

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union protested to the United States Saturday against U.S. air raids in the vicinity of Haiphong, North Viet Nam, Thursday, which it said "created a direct threat to Soviet merchant ships and the lives of Soviet seamen."

A protest note handed to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow said some Soviet ships were almost hit and added: "The responsibility for the possible consequences of such actions fully rests with the United States government."

As is customary in such notes, the Soviet Foreign Ministry did not spell out the consequences.

Poland registered a similar protest last April, saying the Polish motorship Benowski was damaged "during a piratical bombing of one of the ports near Haiphong" while taking on coal.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman in Warsaw said the United States replied that it would investigate the charge, but strongly rejected the language of the Polish protest accusing it of aggression and an act of piracy.

Although the attack that day centered on remnants of the Haiphong oil depot wrecked June 29, the Soviet note referred to the raid as an attack on the port of Haiphong itself.

The note said, "Fragments and machine gun fire fell in close proximity to the Soviet merchant ships Kuibyshev, Sovetsk and Ustilug."

"Four hours later planes dropped a number of big metal objects around the motorship Komsovol lying at anchor in the Malong Bay," it added.

The objects were not further identified in the Soviet note. Conceivably, they could have been jetted fuel tanks from the U.S. aircraft.

Last Thursday, officials at the Defense Department had said there were no ships close to the Haiphong depot. They said three freighters were seen in the outer harbor but their nationality was not determined.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow had no comment.

According to the Soviet news agency, Tass, the note was directed against "provocations" by American armed forces in Viet Nam which create "a threat to Soviet merchant ships and are a gross violation of the principles of free navigation."

The Soviet Union ships large quantities of goods by sea to North Viet Nam. Sources here said this does not include military equipment, which is sent overland by train through Red China.

The Warsaw Pact countries pledged to increase aid for Vietnamese Communists in a joint declaration made at their meeting in Bucharest, Romania, earlier in the week.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin said on June 30 that the bombings showed the United States "is not at all interested in the peaceful settlement of the Viet Nam question." He called them "a new senseless step."

Saturday's note was the first specific mention of alleged near misses of Soviet ships.

Soviet concern about its shipping in Vietnamese waters first was expressed May 17, when the merchant marine minister, Viktor Bakayev, said U.S. raids along the coast "directly threatened" foreign shipping.

Like Saturday's protest, his statement did not threaten any specific countermeasures by the Soviet Union.

China rejected Saturday India's call for a Geneva peace conference on Viet Nam. It called for complete withdrawal of U.S. troops from South Viet Nam before holding such a conference.

Peking radio, in a Chinese-language broadcast heard here, said the rejection was made by Premier Chou En-lai in a speech delivered at a banquet given in honor of the delegations to an Afro-Asian writers conference which concluded its session in Peking Saturday.

Chou said the Indian proposal was made to benefit the United States and "to deceive the world."

"The United States has from time to time violated the Geneva agreements. The Geneva conference should be called after the United States withdraws its forces unconditionally from South Viet Nam," Chou said.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India proposed Thursday that the 1954 Geneva Conference on Indochina be reconvened immediately.

The Atomic Energy Commission, it was learned Saturday, will soon propose a step-up in the U.S. effort to harness the hydrogen bomb reaction to produce electricity — lest the Soviet Union get the jump.

The AEC's move is in the form of a progress report and recommendations for future action to be delivered in a few days to the Senate-Atomic Energy Committee.

Findings It comes in the wake of unpublished reports by AEC advisers — including one by its own staff scientists — that:

— The Soviet Union has forged ahead of the United States in financial and manpower outlays for the quest. Scientists said success in the effort could provide a new source of energy that can last for some 20 billion years, while present power sources could be exhausted within decades.

— The Soviet Union is threatening to overtake America's lead in scientific gains toward the goal of using the hydrogen of the world's oceans as a cheap, safe and efficient fuel of limitless supply to generate electricity.

— The U.S. effort toward taming the H-bomb fusion reaction — known as "controlled thermonuclear research" — has been impeded by budgets now running at about $22 million yearly.

Two years ago, American scientific contributions to effective progress in the quest amounted to well over one-half of the world total, but this has dropped to about one-third, and is declining rapidly.

See Breakthrough

The forthcoming report by the commission itself is expected to reflect the view that a breakthrough is attainable before the end of this century.

The report is also expected to say that in addition to the prospect of harnessing the hydrogen fusion reaction for the generation of electric power, research in this field — involving "plasmas," or ionized gases — can have side benefits in such areas as:

— Developing new types of generators that would directly convert the energy of various types of gaseous materials — from hydrogen — into electricity.

— Helping scientists distinguish warheads from other objects during re-entry into the atmosphere.

— The possibility of propelling manned and unmanned space vehicles by high-energy exhaust of ion and "plasma" thrusters.

— Helping solve the problem of communications blackouts during space vehicle re-entry.

Reverse Ambush Kills 160 Reds

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — American forces, pursuing an estimated 2,000 Viet Cong toward the Cambodian border after tracking the enemy into a reverse ambush, reported Sunday they had killed 160 Communist guerrillas.

The fighting, which continued late Saturday night, broke a 10-day lull in the ground war.

The battle erupted near An Loc about 40 miles north of Saigon when an ambush-minded Viet Cong regiment fell for the bait and snapped at a cruising U.S. armored column. The waiting Americans raked the enemy with preplanned fire, then a heavy air assault.

The U.S. Military Command reported 99 air sorties pounded the enemy, the remnants of which were reported streaking for the sanctuary across the Cambodian border.

Overall American losses were described as light though the first American unit hit — an armored outfit of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division was roughly handled when the Viet Cong sprang an ambush along a narrow road.

A U.S. spokesman said the armored unit had been sent out as a bait for the enemy.

In later stages of the heavy fighting, one Viet Cong bunker complex was overrun.

Artillery aided the ground and air attacks on the enemy.

The Viet Cong apparently were falling back in well disciplined order. The Americans said they captured few weapons.

In the air war the U.S. command announced strikes at four more of North Viet Nam's oil installations in the drive to wipe out enemy fuel reserves. A fuel tank factory 31 miles north of Hanoi was among other targets.

Washington (AP) — The Republican Coordinating Committee recommended Saturday night that Congress provide for automatic increases in Social Security benefits to meet increases in living costs.

The proposal was made in a report entitled "A Republican Approach to the Needs of the Aging" which called also for action to back up the medicare program.

"In the new field of medicine the Johnson-Humphrey administration is guilty of gross negligence," the report said.

"The law became effective nearly a year ago and the administration has failed tragically to prepare for the start of the program. The hospitalization program begins on July 1. The program of nursing care goes into effect Jan. 1, 1967."

"Still, today, extended medical facilities called for under the act are largely nonexistent. The Republican Coordinating Committee urges the immediate implementation of already existing programs to provide such personnel, services, and facilities as may be necessary to care adequately for the health of our elderly citizens."

The coordinating committee includes representatives of Republican governors, Congress, state legislators and the national committee. Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former presidential nominees are members.

The report was prepared by a task force headed by John B. Martin, Grand Rapids, Mich., chairman of the Michigan Commission on Aging. It was adopted by the coordinating committee at its meeting here June 27-28 and made public Saturday night by the GOP National Committee.

Along with proposing automatic cost-of-living increases in Social Security and Railroad Retirement benefits, it attacked inflation and called for immediate steps to "stop multibillion-dollar federal deficit spending which lays the foundation for inflation."

Views in the report in other subjects:

Jobs: Older people who are able and want to work should be encouraged to do so. The present $1,500-a-year limit on earnings without reduction of Social Security benefits should be raised.

Grants: Most states are failing to meet the minimum subsistence standards for older people forced to rely heavily on old-age assistance programs. Immediate action should be taken by the states, and if necessary by the federal government, to see that basic needs are met.

Private Pension Plans: There should be prompt consideration of ways to amend present laws to further encourage such plans.

Klansmen Found Guilty Of Violating Negroes' Rights

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — U.S. District Judge William A. Buxton, disregarding pleas for leniency, sentenced two Ku Klux Klansmen Saturday to 10 years in prison for crimes against Negroes.

It was the longest period of confinement he could impose on the two — Joseph Howard Sims, 41, and Cecil W. Myers, 26 — under an 1870 law that formed the basis of their convictions.

Bootle had found them $5,000 each in addition to the fines.

The verdicts were read Friday night at the end of two back-to-back trials of Sims, Myers, and four of their fellow Klansmen, all charged with conspiring to violate the civil rights of Negroes. The other four were acquitted.

The charges stemmed from the slaying in 1964 of Lemuel A. Penn, a 49-year-old Negro educator, killed by shotgun fire near Athens as he was returning to his home in Washington, D.C., from Army Reserve training at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Sims and Myers were acquitted about two months after the shooting of state charges that they murdered Penn.

Defense attorney James Hudson, who also represented them in the murder trial, said they would appeal the conviction.

Bootle set bond at $35,000 each.

One of their codefendants, Herbert Gues, a 39-year-old garage operator, earlier had pleaded guilty to charges of selling "pep" pills without a license. Bootle sentenced him to two years in prison. This case was not related to the civil rights charges.

Hudson asked for leniency for all three and said of Sims and Myers, "Neither of these men have been in trouble before this (Turn To Page Eleven)

Few Russ Bloc Nations Remain As 'Satellites'

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — The Communist summit conference here this week marked another stage in the dissolution of the old block of Soviet satellites.

It made the political satellite a bit more obsolete than it had already become, although a few countries still qualify by orbiting around Moscow.

The nations whose Communist party bosses and premiers assembled in the throne room of the former royal palace here were Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, East Germany, Hungary, Mongolia, Poland, Romania and the Soviet Union.

The leaders were able to agree that peace is desirable in Europe and American policies are undesirable everywhere, especially Viet Nam. They may have reached secret agreement on some reduction of the number of Soviet troops in Europe.

But the combination of what they said publicly and what they avoided saying suggested that they had failed to agree on some points.

The most obvious one was the organization of the East European Communist military alliance, the Warsaw Pact. It has been loosely organized, with the Soviet marshal in command having only nominal powers.

Soviet Communist leader Leonid I. Brezhnev said last September the pact needed "a permanent and prompt mechanism for considering pressing problems." Romania led the resistance to what it saw as an attempt to tighten Soviet command over bloc armies.

Romania seems to have won. None of the conference documents mention the subject.

A Soviet official said it never had come up in the conference here. Other sources said a compromise had been worked out for a pact secretariat, but it might have blown up in a Monday night Soviet-Romanian confrontation that left the Russians unwilling even to admit the subject had been discussed.

Whatever was the Brezhnev "mechanism" disappeared, Soviet inability to impose Kremlin military plans on the pact marked another stage of change since Joseph Stalin ran the

Sewage Lagoons Will Use
Million Gallons Each Day

BEARDSTOWN — Approximately one hundred million gallons of water will be pumped into the lagoons which are a part of the sewage disposal system at the new Oscar Mayer plant here and the task will take about 70 days.

Jerry Riddeough, head man at the plant, made this rough estimate Friday after Fressen brothers of Bluffs completed the work of spreading asphalt over the two large lagoons, each 35 acres.

Riddeough says that the plant will use a million gallons of water daily when it is in operation here, and this will be pumped from two 20-inch wells at the plant site.

Oscar Mayer will be responsible for filling the lagoons — the 70 acres will be flooded to a depth of five to six feet. Calculations on the amount of water needed to fill the areas were made on the basis of footage, 43,560 square feet to the acre.

It is hoped that the pumps can produce 1,000 gallons of water per minute, 24 hours a day.

Although the new spur track from the Burlington main line to the Mayer complex three miles east of the city has not been completed, it is being utilized at this time for transporting new machinery to the building areas where it eventually will be used.

Mr. Riddeough said Friday

that machinery is now being shipped to Beardstown.

This week a huge dewatering machine, weighing 100,000 pounds arrived. It was sent here from the Ohio manufacturer in three box cars.

About 100 men are now working at the construction plant, some more than the usual five days a week, to speed the operation.

A water tank with a capacity of 150,000 gallons has been erected this week — workmen capped the tall tower Thursday and it can be seen for miles.

The tower will be utilized to furnish pressure and to assure fire protection.

Work now being done is primarily in the inside of the buildings, including wiring and installation of header piping. The brick floors also are being put down.

No date is being mentioned these days for completing the 5 million dollar slaughtering factory which will employ 200 to 400 persons eventually.

Oscar Mayer and its subsidiaries operate a meat packing and processing business, specializing in pork and pork products.

Major products include bacon, cold cuts, wieners, smoke links and sliced luncheon meats for which a new serve and seal package was introduced in 1965.

Common faults that lead to unnecessary lines in the face that age persons prematurely can be corrected. The furrowed brows (left) or pursing and puckering of chin and lips (center) are bad habits. Correct way to smile (right) avoids wrinkling of nose and squinting of eyes that bring on lines that make women look older than they are.

Americans Eating More Seafood Now

By W. JOYNES MACFARLAN
WASHINGTON (AP) The people of the United States are eating more seafood than ever before.

Yet, the nation's commercial fishermen are failing to capitalize on the demand, even though they receive more for their catch last year than ever before, government officials say. They pointed to statistics showing:

1. Per capita consumption of fishery products in 1965 reached 11 pounds, the highest annual figure since 1954 and nearly half a pound higher than the 1964 average. The population also increased.
2. For the first time in history, U.S. imports of edible fishery products in 1965 exceeded 50 per cent of the supply and this country became the world's largest importer of such products.
3. The catch by U.S. fishermen, including industrial fish, was 4.7 billion pounds last year, only 4 per cent higher than the 1964 take, but the income of these fishermen was a record $451 million, compared with $390 million in 1964.
4. The total supply of edible fishery products was 5.1 billion pounds last year, a record, and up from the previous high of 4.9 billion pounds in 1964.
5. It developed that fishery resources off the shores of the United States could supply this nation with five times its present catch and provide the raw material needed to make it a major exporter of fishery products.

The Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, in the Interior Department, points out that the world's seafood harvest soared from 102.3 billion pounds in 1963 to 113.8 billion pounds in 1964 and that the expansion continued into 1965.

"The United States, however, did not share in this expansion of production and remained fifth among the fishing nations of the world," the bureau said.

Donald L. McKernan, director of the bureau, said in an interview there is cause for optimism, however, that domestic fisheries will be restored to their traditional place as one of the leading fishing nations of the world.

He said the government, aware of the tremendous potential fishery resources and the increase of foreign fishing activity off the U.S. coasts, has expanded programs of research, development, and services in its effort to insure that the nation participates fully in the harvest.

McKernan rejected suggestions that there are shortages of various types of seafood because of over-fishing of the oceans, or because of foreign fishing off the American coasts. He said a major reason for price increases of some fishery products has been public demand for higher quality, and preparation as convenience foods.

He said the normal law of supply and demand also has been reflected in prices for such things as canned tuna and oysters, with reduced production followed by higher prices.

N. Viets Were Winning But Allies Blocked Aim

EDITOR'S NOTE—Associated Press correspondent Bob Poos has spent 10 months in Viet Nam, much of it covering the crucial 2nd Corps area which encompasses the central highlands and coastal plain. Here are some observations of what has taken place there in the past year, coupled with an interview with Maj. Gen. Stanley R. Larsen, top American officer in the region.

By BOB POOS
Associated Press Writer
NHA TRANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Last fall and winter the allies were clearly losing the war against Communist insurgents in Viet Nam. Now, just as clearly, the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese are staggering under punishment from the Americans, Koreans, and the revitalized South Vietnamese army.

Some time ago, the North Vietnamese general, Vo Nguyen Giap, conqueror of the French during the Vietnam war, boasted that he would defeat the Vietnamese army and its allies in the central highlands and the coastal region, that he would cut the country in two there, and choke it to death.

American, Vietnamese, and Korean blood and energy have thwarted this aim thus far. Last December, a well-informed source in Pleiku, key city of the central highlands, told a newsmen: "Get out of here quick. The North Vietnamese are liable to hit this place hard, take it and hold it just long enough to get the allies to bomb it. This is too close to Christmas to get killed."

At that time, the Pleiku airport contained numerous Vietnamese civilians waiting patiently for the next plane headed for a more secure area, mute testimony that expectations for the future were gloomy. But there has been a considerable reversal of fortunes since then. Now it is the insurgents who are kept off balance by wide-ranging allied military operations. In the past 30 days, through a combination of good luck and planning, allied military operations have thwarted at least four Communist strikes. During the past half-year, at least eight battalions of elite Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops have been chopped up by allied fire power.

There have been several architects of allied success but among the foremost are a pair of U.S. major generals, Stanley R. Larsen, senior American in the corps, and Harry W. O. Kinard, who brought the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division to Viet Nam and directed it from its beginning through its most outstanding successes.

Working with them has been Maj. Gen. Vinh Loc, a relative of Viet Nam's last emperor, Bao Dai. The Vietnamese general does not particularly like Americans but respects their energy and military ability. Larsen said in a recent interview: "The most outstanding thing I have seen in the past year is the revitalization of the Vietnamese forces." American and Vietnamese military men believe the insurgents will try sooner or later for a quick victory. Probably it will be an attempt to overrun one of the American-Vietnamese Special Forces camps which sit on North Vietnamese routes of supply along the Cambodian border. Along with military success, the allies have been accomplishing less spectacular but possibly even more important achievements. Highways that were once popular Viet Cong ambush sites are now traveled safely. Almost every major operation center, from northernmost Kontum Province to the 2nd Corps limit just north of Saigon, is free from enemy attack except by harassment and local terrorism.

Birthdays are special days no matter where one might be when the day arrives. Thursday was Doris Fleming's special day, and she marked it with an afternoon of waterskiing and a traditional birthday dinner some 6,000 miles away from home at the E. Y. Johnson farm southwest of Ashland.

But Thursday was more than merely Doris' 23rd birthday, it was an American first for the Irish lass who is presently staying with the Johnsons as part of her six-month U.S. visit under the International Farm Youth Exchange program.

Ninety-degree temperatures, food that has "everything mixed together," mosquitoes, and waterskiing are but a few of the previously unknown things that Doris has encountered since her arrival in the U.S. last spring, but, she added, "I hope to be seeing and doing much more before I leave."

While a guest of the Johnsons the red-haired miss from Fermanagh county, Northern Ireland has visited the Lincoln shires, several county fairs and has spoken before numerous youth groups. But all of her two-week stay with the Johnsons has not been one rush after another.

"Everyone I have met since coming to the states has been so nice that it has been easy for me to feel at home. We have had plenty of time to sit around and talk, both of Ireland, the United States, and everything else."

Life in Ireland was naturally the most frequent topic of conversation at the Johnson household, however, with numerous sessions of taking out maps and other illustrations to aid the discussions.

"Farm life in Ireland," Doris pointed out, "greatly differs from that of the United States mainly because of the relative size of the two countries."

"The average size farm in Ireland is only about 50 acres, with good land selling at $1,200 per acre. This is the main reason why our farm prices are so high compared with those in the states."

Miss Fleming cited over-mechanization on the farm and the desire of many to accept relief checks, rather than work for a living, as Ireland's most pressing problems.

"As a dairy advisor I have continually found that many of our farmers are buying more modernized equipment than can be used economically on their small farms. And it is hard to convince these people that sharing machinery is the best way to overcome this problem."

Irish farm life has not been the only topic of conversation during Doris' stay with the Johnsons. She has naturally been inquisitive into the why's and wherefore's of American farm life. The Johnsons, and the other families with which she has stayed, have made her a part of the family and given her taste of daily American farm life.

Besides the daily routine she has engaged in, Doris has hit several holidays while in the U.S. Her birthday was one of these. Another was the 4th of July.

Because the extremely hot weather precluded any extensive traveling about on the 4th of July, the Johnson family held its own celebration on the farm. After a family dinner, Mr. Johnson treated the group to a fireworks display, which Doris said she enjoyed immensely.

Being a citizen of the British Commonwealth, Doris was amused earlier in the day when a young visitor taunted her about the significance of the day to Americans. She coolly observed that she was celebrating the day too — celebrating getting rid of the U.S.

Much to everyone's disappointment at the Johnson farm, the guest's visit, Miss Fleming will be off to visit another midwestern farm today. Her next stop is in Kankakee county, while later two-week visits will be in North Dakota, before her departure from the U.S. next November.

Coming Soon To Serve You Better

Photograph of the IBM 1240 Computer which will be installed at Elliott State Bank later this year.

A COMPUTER THAT READS, RECORDS, DOUBLE-CHECKS AND REMEMBERS ALL YOUR BANK TRANSACTIONS!

AN IBM 1240 COMPUTER — most versatile data processing equipment in the Jacksonville area — will be installed at Elliott State Bank this year. It will make possible a new era of banking convenience — take care of your banking faster, more completely, and with greater accuracy than ever possible before.

THE 1240 WILL 'READ' those odd-looking numbers on your checks and deposit slips. It's a whiz at arithmetic and has a memory as big as all outdoors. Under the direction of our skilled personnel, it will process all your banking transactions with a speed and accuracy that can't be equalled in the Jacksonville area.

WHY THIS TREMENDOUS INVESTMENT IN A COMPUTER? Because never before in history have so many people enjoyed the convenience of bank services. Ten billion checks are written in America every year. More people save more money in banks than ever before. Banks are the place families turn to for credit and installment financing. Trust services are at an all-time high. Young Americans will use the services of their bank even more than their parents. And the computer will provide the speed to make this growth possible.

WHAT ABOUT JANE DOE? Please don't get the idea that 1240 is going to replace anyone. All of the fine people who now record and process your banking transactions will continue to serve you. With 1240 doing much of the routine work, they will be free to provide even more personal services for our customers than before.

1240 WILL BE A COMMUNITY COMPUTER, TOO. We have invested in a computer that is bigger than we need so that other business firms and institutions in the community can make use of it, also. Soon the 1240 will be serving you and the community in many ways.

ELLIOTT — 100 YEARS YOUNG THIS YEAR. Throughout its first century of service, Elliott State Bank has worked hard to gear its services and facilities to changing needs, to make available to the people of our area complete financial services and convenience, combined with strength and security.

The installation of data processing equipment is a fitting way to begin our second century of service — a century destined to be revolutionized by the miracle of electronics and symbolized by the 1240.

Marina of Aguas Frias

The road to Aguas Frias is steep and rocky, shunned by taxi drivers from Medellin, the great city far below in a lush, green valley of northern Colombia. So the American girl climbed on foot to the village in June of 1964. She came not as a tourist, but to live with poor farming families scratching out a living on the mountainside, isolated from the city below and even from each other. She came to help build a school, to teach the children and to encourage the sharing of hopes, plans and labor for a better life for all. And when, almost two years later, the time came to say goodbye, Aguas Frias poured forth its gratitude to the girl it knew as Marina . . .

Maureen Orth, 23, B.A. Political Science, University of California, 1964 . . . Peace Corps volunteer.

Few outsiders have even heard of Aguas Frias. Fewer still had paid the mountain village of 60 families any attention until Peace Corps Volunteer Maureen Orth arrived.

Maureen's first project was a school. She helped raise funds and organized work parties for construction of "Escuela Marina Orth"—a long, low building consisting of one large classroom and quarters for a teacher.

Maureen encouraged community action, organizing a junta—a community committee—and aiding it in dealing with government authorities.

Her friends of Aguas Frias remained with Maureen until the last moment, waiting with her at the Medellin airport for the plane that was to take her away from one home and back to another.

Chicago Livestock Market Report

CHICAGO (AP)—Demand for butcher hogs was rather slow last week after a rather brisk trade on Tuesday and prices never were better than steady. They closed 25 cents to 1/2 low.

The top price of $26.25 was paid on Tuesday. By Thursday it had fallen to $25.50. A high of $26.75 had been paid in the previous week and it never dropped below $25.75.

The week's run of 16,500 head for the holiday week compared with 220,500 for the previous week of five trading days.

Average price for the week was estimated at $24.80, compared with $24.76 the previous week and $24.42 a year ago.

Slaughter steers also trended toward weakness in late trading and finished only steady. Prices averaged about $25.50 compared with $24.79 for the previous week and $27.13 a year ago.

Spring slaughter lambs were steady for a small supply.

New York Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP)—In a quiet way, the stock market last week put on one of its best rallies of the year, rebounding sharply from the losses of the previous week.

On the basis of The Associated Press average, it was the best rally in a year and more than wiped out the losses of the previous week.

Because the July 4 holiday cut the trading week to four days, volume was only 24,806,710 shares compared with 27,141,910 for the full five-day trading week previous.

Strength in Blue Chips was the hallmark of the week's advance, but many glamor stocks also made fine comebacks.

The AP 60-stock average rose 7.6 to 323.8, more than wiping out its loss of 4.7 in the previous week, and making the best weekly advance since the week ended July 3, 1965 when it advanced 8.3.

The Dow Jones industrial average spurted 16.98 to 894.04, failing to wipe out its loss of 20.10 taken in the previous week.

Although the rise seemed to lack enthusiasm most of the time, there was no question about the improvement in stock prices. Of 1,538 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 993 rose and 407 fell.

One big brokerage house (Bache & Co.) with branches throughout the world, began recommending to its clients an assortment of the bluest Blue Chips on the basis that their price-earnings ratios were the lowest they had been in many years.

The response to this was some of the biggest investment buying for a long while. The market staged its sharpest rally since mid-May as volume increased.

Municipal bonds hovered around their lowest prices and highest yields in a quarter of a century.

Their verdict, however, had been sealed in an envelope for seven days to insure fairness in the second trial, and it was not made public until Friday night.

The jury that convicted Sims and Myers acquitted George H. Turner, 33, a maintenance worker at an Athens poultry company.

The second jury, a panel of 12 white men, deliberated about nine and one-half hours Friday before returning three verdicts of acquittal. They acquitted Guest, James S. Lackey, 30, former manager of an Athens service station, and Denver Willis Phillips, a 26-year-old mechanic.

U.S. Dist. Atty. Floyd M. Buford had said six convictions would be "a declaration for law and order." But he said: "There is no reason to question the jury in any way. Southerners respect the law and Southerners respect justice. It was up to the jury to decide the guilt or innocence. The jury has spoken."

NL Picked To Take 4th Straight All-Star Game

Koufax And McLain Look To Start

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Sandy Koufax, Willie Mays and Hank Aaron, a tough combo when the heat is on, help make the National League a 7-5 favorite over the Robinson boys and the American League in Tuesday's All-Star baseball game at Busch Memorial Stadium.

The National League took the lead for the first time in the long series last year and holds an 18-17-1 edge going into this 37th midsummer meeting. Taking charge of the competition that was dominated for so many years by the American League, the Nationals have won three in a row and seven of the last eight decisions.

PICKED TO LADIES

PGA HALL OF FAME

NEW YORK (AP) — Maureen Orcutt of Englewood, N.J., and the late Pamela Barton of London, England, have been elected to the Ladies Professional Golf Association's Hall of Fame.

Herb Graffis, chairman of the Hall of Fame Committee, said Saturday the two women will be officially inducted at the Metro-politan New York golf writers dinner next Feb. 21.

Miss Orcutt, a sports writer for the New York Times, won 64 championships during her playing days, was twice a finalist in the U.S. amateur tournament and a member of four Curtis Cup teams which played against England.

Miss Barton won the British championship in 1936 and 1939 and in 1936 eliminated Miss Orcutt in the final round of the U.S. championship.

The women's Hall of Fame, founded in 1948, is located at the Augusta, Ga., Country Club.

Griffith Risks Title Wednesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith, one of the busiest champions of modern days, engages in his 13th title fight Wednesday night when he risks his world middleweight crown against Joey Archer of New Garden.

The 28-year-old champion is a slight favorite at 7-5 odds for the 15-rounder which will be telecast coast-to-coast on a special network by Madison Square Garden-RKO General Sports Presentations. New York will be blacked out of the telecast. Starting time is 10 p.m. EDT. Griffith has a 9-2 record in welterweight title fights and a 1-0 record for middleweight championship contests. He dethroned Nigeria's Dick Tiger on a 15-round decision at the Garden last April 25.

Although he is not recognized as welterweight champion by the World Boxing Association and the New York State Athletic Commission, Griffith maintains he still is the king of the 147-pounders, as well as the 160-pound middleweights.

The dapper New Yorker has gone to court to back his stand. A decision is pending in New York State Supreme Court.

Closer To Welterweight
Physically, Griffith is closer to being a welterweight than a middleweight. He scaled only 150 1/2 pounds the night he beat the 160-pound Tiger, dropping the Nigerian for the first time in Dick's career.

Emile may have trouble reaching 150 1/2. The broad-shouldered, slim-hipped Virgin Islands' native has had difficulty building up weight because of heat.

"He can't give away that weight to me and get away with it," said Archer, 26-year-old former's dock laborer. "If I hit him right I'll knock him out."

Grelle Captures 3,000 Meter Run

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Jim Grelle won the 3,000 meters in the leisurely time of 8:03.8 Saturday as a group of top athletes tuned up in the Santa Monica invitational track meet for meets with Poland and Russia.

The 23-year-old Grelle put on his familiar burst of speed in the last 200 yards to beat out Pat Traynor of the Long Beach 49ers Track Club, who was timed in 8:04.4 and George Young of Casa Grande, Ariz., timed in 8:05.0.

Oregon's Neal Steinhauer was the lone double winner. He won the shot put at 63.4 and the discus at 170.11.

The No. 1 U.S. sprint team of Charlie Greene, George Anderson, Tom Jones and Jim Hines, won the 400-meter relay in 39.6. John Pennel won the pole vault at 17-7/8 with fewer misses at the height, with Paul Wilson second.

The No. 2 sprint team was disqualified for dropping the baton on the handoff from John Moon to Adolph Plummer.

So they ran the relay again and the No. 2 team of Bill Gaines, Harold Busby, Moon and Plummer was the winner in 39.7, and the No. 1 team was disqualified for passing the baton out of the zone, Jones to Hines.

In the pole vault, both Pennel and Wilson tried for a world record at 17-6 but failed. The Polish meet is next weekend at Berkeley and the Russians appear in Los Angeles July 23-24.

The squad will assemble in Berkeley Monday.

Fleet Host Cops Hollywood Race

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Longshot Fleet Host and Drin turned back the challenge of the heavily backed favorite, Exhibitionist, and two other eastern invaders Saturday with a wire to wire triumph in the $120,500 Hollywood Derby.

The two California-campaigned colts finished one-two before a roaring crowd of 48,084 at Hollywood Park as Rehabilitate, a new arrival from New York, finished third and Exhibitionist fourth.

Jockey Jerry Lambert rushed the California-bred Fleet Host into the lead in the jump out of the gate and finished 2 1/2 lengths in front of Drin.

Rehabilitate, ridden by Milo Valenzuela, was three lengths back and Exhibitionist another 1 1/4 lengths in fourth.

Fleet Host, under the silks of Fletcher Jones and lightly-weighted at 114 pounds, went virtually unnoticed by the crowd and returned $39.20, $12.20 and $5.40.

Drin, with Bill Shoemaker up, was the third choice behind Exhibitionist and Rehabilitate in the betting and paid $5.40 and $3.40. Rehabilitate returned $3.20.

San Diego's Boss Is Charged, Ready

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn. MONTICELLO, N.Y. — (NEA) — In a few days, Sid Gillman would be squinting into the California sun, watching the sweat of a winter's relaxation dripping from the employees of the San Diego Chargers.

Sid Gillman is the coach of the Chargers. He also is the general manager. It is, he maintains, the only way to run a successful football team.

His argument is convincing, so convincing that you sometimes think of Sid Gillman as hands-on-his, eyes darting quickly around the field—standing in the broiling sun, counting the droplets of sweat rolling off each man.

"Well," he asks, "do you think it's better to bring in an outsider who knows nothing except the business aspects of the game when I'm right here, watching every move?"

"Look at your successful pro football operations—Vince Lombardi at Green Bay, ours in San Diego. The coach doubles as the general manager. It's a lot easier. You know everything that's going on. You know a player's value that much better."

Ernie Ladd did not agree with Gillman's thinking. Nor did Earl Faison.

The two defensive linemen (and American League All-Stars) were so dissatisfied with Gillman's analysis of their worth that they both played out their options, making them free agents.

There are some in pro football who believe the actions of Ladd and Faison helped speed the merger of the National and American Leagues.

Ladd is with the Houston Oilers and there is talk that Faison may rejoin the Chargers with a raise now that the price war over rookies has been ended.

"Yes," Gillman said, "I think the merger will benefit the older players. It's going to benefit everyone—players, coaches, owners and fans."

"From now on, everyone will be paid commensurate to their value. This should make everyone happy and produce better football. In the last few years the only thing anyone worried about was money. I knew it both as a coach and a general manager."

Ladd and Faison understood the situation even better than Gillman. They simply felt they were underpaid. As the months passed, the arguments became more bitter and more public, causing Gillman and the Chargers much embarrassment.

"Look," Gillman said, "You win first. That takes care of making those guys happy. The only way I'll know if I'm right

FALLING DOWN on the job? Hardly. Minnesota's Ted Uhlaender (top), chasing a drive to centerfield, is about to make a spectacular catch. And pitcher Jim Bunning of the Philadelphia Phillies has just cut loose a hard fast one.

Haller HR In 12th Wins For Giants 8-7

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tom Haller hit a two-out, two-run homer in the bottom of the 12th giving the San Francisco Giants an 8-7 victory over Cincinnati Saturday and extending the Reds' losing streak to 11.

The Reds, who have the longest losing streak in the majors this season, went ahead 7-6 with an unearned run in the top of the 12th on Tito Fuentes' error. But with two out in the Giants' half of the inning Fuentes hit a trickler toward the mound. Pitcher Joe Nuxhall picked up the ball and fired to first. The ball, however, sailed into right field, and Fuentes reached second on the hit and error.

Haller then came up and hit his 19th homer over the right field fence.

The runs were the first of the game for the Giants that Willie McCovey did not drive in. McCovey drove in the first six with two homers, a double and a single.

Mantle Suffers New Leg Injury

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle, veteran clouter of the New York Yankees, will watch Tuesday's major league All-Star baseball game on the television set of his Dallas home while the minor tear in his left hamstring muscle heals.

Mantle suffered the injury in the second game of the Yankees' doubleheader with the Washington Senators Friday night after hitting a home run in each of the games.

Despite the airlines strike, Mantle was able to get a reservation and flew to Dallas early Saturday. It was first believed that he would be out from 10 days to two weeks but Yankee officials now are hoping that he will rejoin the club in Kansas City Thursday.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ray Washburn pitched St. Louis to its first victory over Houston in five games this season as the Cardinals whipped the Astros 7-1 Saturday night before a record crowd of 47,656.

The crowd, attracted by a bat night promotion, was the largest ever to see a sports event in St. Louis.

Washburn, who had a six-hit shutout until the Astros pushed across their run in the eighth inning, was supported by a 13-hit attack that included a key double by Charley Smith in a three-run second inning and a two-run homer by Jerry Buchek in the fourth.

The Cardinals collected the five runs off 19-year-old Larry Dierker, who had a 3-0 record against St. Louis over two seasons.

McLain Takes 13th On Two-Hitter, 8-1

MINNEAPOLIS — ST. PAUL (AP) — Denny McLain fired a two-hitter for his 13th victory while Al Kaline drove in four runs with two homers and a sacrifice fly and Bill Freehan smashed a three-run homer in leading Detroit to an 8-1 victory over Minnesota Saturday.

McLain gave up a single to Zoilo Versalles as the leadoff man in the first inning, then held the Twins hitless until the seventh when he lost his shutout on Tony Oliva's 17th home run.

The 22-year-old right-hander likely will start for the American League All-Stars Tuesday at St. Louis, Twins' Manager Sam Mele indicated before the game. He has lost four games while racking up the most victories of any AL pitcher.

The Tigers leaped on Minnesota starter Jim Merritt for four runs in the first inning, three coming on Freehan's eighth homer after Kaline's sacrifice fly produced the first run.

Kaline socked a solo homer in the third inning, then crashed his 20th with a teammate aboard in the fifth when the Tigers scored three more runs for an 8-0 lead.

Phils Cut Cubs' Rally Short, 11-6

CHICAGO (AP) — Relief pitcher Darold Knowles picked Ron Santo off first base, ending a four-run seventh-inning rally and preserving an 11-6 victory for the Philadelphia Phillies over the Chicago Cubs Saturday.

Home runs by Glenn Beckert and Billy Williams keyed the four-run spree during which starting pitcher Larry Jackson was kayoed but still gained his seventh victory in 14 decisions this season.

Jackson's bat was instrumental in the victory over his former teammates. His two-run homer in the sixth inning featured a three-run outburst which broke a 2-2 tie.

'Bobo' Olson To Mark 38th Date In Ring

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Carl Bobo Olson, the former middleweight champion, celebrates his 38th birthday Monday in time familiar surroundings of a prize fight ring.

Despite the advancing years, Bobo is figured at least an even choice against Italy's Piero Del Papa, The European light-heavyweight champion, in their 10-rounder at San Francisco's Civic Auditorium.

Both hope a convincing victory will bring a title shot against champion Jose Torres, who made his successful championship bid in his first fight after stopping Olson in the first round at New York in 1964.

The 27-year-old Del Papa risks somewhat more than Olson. He's currently ranked the No. 2 contender in the 175-pound division by Ring Magazine and No. 8 by the World Boxing Association. Olson isn't ranked by Ring and the WBA puts him in the No. 9 spot.

Matchmaker Benny Ford figures the bout will do a $25,000 gross business since Olson remains a favorite with San Francisco boxing fans and handily outpointed Wayne Thornton in his last two showings here. Thornton went on to fight and lose a 15-round decision to Torres in a title match.

WILLIAMS, STENGEL HONORARY COACHES

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Casey Stengel and Ted Williams, soon to be formally inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame, will be the honorary coaches at Tuesday's All-Star game.

Stengel and Williams will be in uniform and will accompany Managers Walter Alston of the National League and Sam Mele of the American League when they take the line-ups to the plate. Stan Musial, all-time St. Louis great and president of the Cardinals, will introduce the players.

Musial, Stengel and Williams later will view the game from Commissioner William D. Eckert's box.

NO SURPRISE, Pittsburgh's Roberto Clemente (left) and Minnesota's Tony Oliva are in the starting lineups for this year's major league All-Star game. Clemente and Oliva were the National and American League batting champs last year.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Sandra Haynie fired nine birdies Saturday as she moved up to lead the field with a score of 69-76—136 in the $20,000 Buckeye Savings Women's Professional Golf Tournament.

Miss Haynie tied a Ladies Professional Golf Association record set in the 1964 Falls City Open by Mickey Wright, who also had nine birdies in one round.

Clifford Ann Creed held second place with a 68-69—137 over Cloverbrook Country Club's 36-36—72 course. Susie Maxwell moved to third with 71-67—138 and Carol Mann the first-round leader, was fourth with 67-72—139.

Joey Archer Doesn't Worry, His Big Brother Is Watching

By DAVE BURGIN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — Every little brother ought to have a big brother like Joey Archer's big brother Jimmy.

Jimmy is 31. Joey is 28. Jimmy takes care of things, sees to it details don't get in the way. Joey relaxes, reads his business and finance books or tends to his nine head of Charlat's cattle on his small farm in New Jersey.

Jimmy manages his brother's boxing career, and he's sometimes bouncer at Joey's smoky little Irish bar on Manhattan's upper East side.

Joey took it, they reasoned, and beat Griffith, what was to prevent Tiger from finding some other challenger? And what if they lost to Griffith?

"We stood on principle," Joey said. "I wasn't going to beg for it any more, and I wasn't going to fight for the sake of a pay day."

Through it all, Griffith was impressed and decided to give Joey his chance after he beat Tiger. And everybody was impressed with the gate and television potential.

The fight stands to be one of the best matches in recent boxing history. Archer is a throwback to the stereotype of the Irish middleweight of yesterday. Straight black hair. Flat broken nose. Good left. Sneaky right. Fierce pride.

Griffith is a rare physical specimen. Perhaps the harder puncher of the two, he has great speed and he is likewise cagey.

Jimmy, the manager, says Joey will fight as he usually does—no prefight plan. Griffith's corner is full of planners, his managers Gil Clancy and Howard Albert. "We take each round as it comes," Jimmy said. "Having Jimmy in the corner," Joey said, "is like watching myself fight. We think alike. I can see what I'm doing through his eyes."

Like it was in any fight when the two brothers were growing up in the Bronx and later working on the docks, "Griffith will have to beat both of us."

Joey and Jimmy Archer

"This is the way it's got to be," said Jimmy. "There's going to be a champion in this family. It's going to be Joey."

It can't be Jimmy. He gave up fighting five years ago because, he says the tissue over his eyes cut too easily. Which means his opponents got to pounding that area too often.

"Jimmy makes mistakes now and then," Joey Archer said. "When that happens we talk things out and in the end things always seem to come out O.K. What the hell, we're here, aren't we?"

In Madison Square Garden July 13, Joey Archer fights for the middleweight championship of the world. His quarry is Emile Griffith, holder of both the world welterweight and middleweight titles.

Four months ago Jimmy made a goof and it seemed at the time to be a slip that would prolong or maybe even kill off Joey's chances of a title shot. And Joey and Jimmy had been waiting three years.

Then, Dick Tiger of Nigeria was the middleweight champ. Tiger was set to defend against Griffith on April 25.

But the brothers Archer were tired of waiting, tired of hoping. Joey had a 46-2 record, including wins over Rubin Carter, Tiger, Denny Moyer, Ray Robinson and Holly Mims in his last 15 fights.

But during those three years he could not get a fight with Joey Giardello, nor with Tiger.

Nicklaus Adds British Open Crown For Final Major Crown

Sanders And Thomas Tie For 2nd Spot

MURFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the golden power man of professional golf, stormed his final citadel Saturday and won the British Open championship by one stroke with a two-under par 282 over the challenging 6,887 yard Murfield links.

The 26-year-old Columbus, Ohio, bomber had won every major title in his relatively brief career and twice before knocked on the door of this one.

For a time it looked as though he would only be knocking again. But he withstood a momentary lapse to knock in a birdie 4 at the 17th which virtually sealed the issue. He played a safe 4 at the home hole while 10,000 fans roared approval.

In the clubhouse, hoping against hope, were Doug Sanders of Ojai, Calif., and Dave Thomas, the Welsh Ryder Cup star, who had posted 283 each.

Playing with Nicklaus was Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., who had to watch his own great chances gradually crumble.

Rodgers started the day in the lead at 210 with Nicklaus at 212. The lead was wiped out on the very first hole with a Nicklaus birdie against a bogey.

Palmer Challenge Fades
Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., challenged for a while but faded. Rodgers rallied, too, but couldn't stand the pace.

Sanders and Thomas also challenged and in fact they did well enough to tie Alf Perry's 283, which was the open record for the Muirfield course set in 1935.

But Nicklaus slammed a 33 on the front nine and came back in 37 for a 70, one under par, and that settled the issue.

The championship record of 276 was set by Palmer at Troon in 1962 when he won the British Open for the second straight year.

Rodgers finished with a 76 for 286 in a tie for fourth with Kel Nagle and Bruce Devlin of Australia, and Gary Player of South Africa, the 1959 Open king at Muirfield.

Dave Marr of Litchfield Park, Ariz., Palmer, Peter Thomson of Australia and Sebastian Miquel of Spain tied at 288. The field strung out after that. Ronnie Shade of Scotland was low amateur with 293.

That gave Nicklaus a check for $5,880—not much for the way he scoops up more than $100,000 dollars a year in prizes alone. But the prestige of winning the British title is worth many times the size of the purse.

Open Crown Gives Jack Full Cycle

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Jack Nicklaus had won the U.S. Open, the Masters three times and the American PGA titles. Only the British Open, of all of the world's major pro titles, had eluded him.

When he bagged the tournament-breaking birdie 4 on the 17th hole and followed with his par 4 on the 18th Saturday to win the British Open for the first time and complete the cycle, he was asked what's next.

"Win some more," replied the 26-year-old Columbus, Ohio, pro. "I'll be back to defend my title next year," said Nicklaus as he was cheered by thousands of Scots after his exciting victory.

The husky, 6-foot, 200-pounder, who rarely shows emotion, was in a jovial mood after his nerve-wracking round.

He had fired a three-under-par 33, on the out nine for a two-stroke lead and then blew the margin with bogeys on the 11th, 13th and 14th holes.

"I decided I'd better start playing golf again," said Nicklaus. "And that was when I regained my composure."

The Scots came to see Nicklaus' famed power game. They saw glimpses of that but they also saw a golfer who was master of every shot.

Nicklaus tamed Muirfield's narrow fairways, deep rough and hard, fast greens with deft iron and confident putting most of the way.

"It's impossible to overpower this course," said Nicklaus. "I used my driver only 17 times in the whole tournament."

Angels Gain Split With Loop Leaders

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rookie Jackie Warner's two-run homer lifted the California Angels to a 2-1 victory over Baltimore in the second game and a split with the American League leaders in Saturday's two-night doubleheader.

The Orioles, who lead second-place Detroit by eight games, won the opener 10-2 as the Robinson boys, Brooks and Frank, each hit a homer and knocked Warner's seventh homer came in the second inning after a single by Bobby Knoop. Loser Dave McNally allowed only two more hits, one an infield dribbler, before being lifted for a pinch hitter in the seventh.

In the opener, the Orioles collected 15 hits off loser Dean Chance and his successors, scoring seven runs in their last two times at bat.

Brooks Robinson, who leads the major leagues with 70 runs batted in, singled home a run in the fifth and hit a two-run homer — his 17th — in the seventh. Frank Robinson collected his three RBI on a sacrifice fly and his 21st homer in the eighth.

Buckpasser, coming in front near the head of the stretch, raced to a one-length victory over Whisper Jet in the $103,000 Chicagoan at Arlington Park Saturday.

Abe's hope was a close third behind Whisper Jet in the 1 1/2 mile race.

In gaining his 15th career victory and sixth in a row, the 3-year-old Buckpasser was timed in 1:49 1/5 compared to the track record of 1:47 1/5. The track was rated fast, but a stiff wind faced the horses coming down the stretch.

Buckpasser, ridden by Braulio Baeza and top weighted at 123 pounds, returned $2.50 and $2.20. Whisper Jet, owned by Nieson Harris of Highland Park, Ill., and ridden by Doug Richard, returned $3.40. There was no show betting.

The winner's official margin was three-fourths of a length, with Whisper Jet nipping Abe's Hope by a neck.

Sutton Earns His High Marks

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK (NEA) — The guidance counselor scanned Don Sutton's report, smiled and thought of the day when the famed space scientist would return to the little high school in Tate, Fla., a national hero.

"All of my teachers and even my friends thought I should go into engineering or management," Sutton said. "They all told me to forget baseball."

"I guess they based their advice on my marks. I had an 'A' average and scored high on my college entrance tests."

By next fall, Don Sutton may be returning to his high school, not quite a national hero, but a success, nonetheless.

His profession, however, is baseball, not engineering or management.

Sutton, a 21-year-old right-hander with the Los Angeles Dodgers, is possibly the best rookie pitcher in the major leagues.

A year ago, his first season as a professional, he split his time between Santa Barbara in the California League and Albuquerque of the Texas League.

A look at his record shows why he made the long jump from the minors to Los Angeles in one season.

Don was in 31 games, 10 at Santa Barbara and 21 at Albuquerque. All were starts and he completed 24 games. In 258 innings pitched he had 247 strikeouts and allowed only 45 walks. His combined record was 23-7.

And he did it without an overpowering fast ball which tells you more about his quick success.

"That's why everyone always doubted if I could make it in the majors," Don said. "But ever since I was young, the curve was my best pitch."

"When it came to my fast ball everyone would say I was 'sneaky fast' which is just a polite way to say someone doesn't have a good fast ball. It's like saying a slow runner has 'deceptive' speed."

In addition to the curve, Don's other big pitch is the slider.

Set Inquest July 14 Into Death Of Cass Woman Found Slain

BEARDSTOWN — Cass County Coroner Stuart Brownback said Saturday that an inquest into the death of a 50-year-old Beardstown cosmetician, found Friday evening there with her throat slashed, would be held July 14.

Brownback revealed that an autopsy was performed on the body of the victim, Mrs. Mildred Daily Brown, 50, but that results probably would not be made public until the inquest, to be held in Beardstown.

Held without bond in the custody of the Cass county sheriff on the charge of murder is the woman's husband, Ernal Brown, 53, of Beardstown.

The victim's body was discovered Friday night in a bathtub at 912 East 7th street in Beardstown, where the couple made their home with Mrs. Brown's father, Thomas Daily, 87.

Brownback put the time of death between 6:15 and 6:30 p.m.

Arrested In Tavern

Brown was taken into custody at Bud and Leo's tavern on East 4th street about seven o'clock. He was taken to the city jail where he was held until appearing at a preliminary arraignment before Associate Circuit Judge Fred Reither about midnight.

Brown was represented by his attorney John P. Crandall of Rushville. The warrant, charging murder, was signed by Beardstown Chief of Police Carl Wubker.

Brownback said Saturday that the autopsy had been requested by the state police crime section, bureau of criminal identification.

The coroner said that preliminary results of the autopsy revealed that the victim was nearly decapitated by the force of the act.

Daily told authorities his daughter returned home from work at the Value Plus drug store about 6:10 p.m. Daily and Brown were in the back yard at the residence when Mrs. Brown arrived home.

The victim's father said Brown went into the house when his daughter came home, and minutes later he heard a violent argument start inside the house.

Father Finds Body
Daily said his daughter apparently ran into the bathroom to escape her husband, and climbed into the bathtub to reach a window above the fixture to call for help.

The father said he rushed into the house, armed with his cane, and found his daughter's

Youth, 18, Hurt In Accident At Lake Saturday

One driver was admitted to Holy Cross hospital for observation following one of four accidents that occurred in Jacksonville and the area Saturday afternoon.

Hospital sources identified the youth as Vernon Dawson, 18, of 1605 Mound avenue. Dawson was treated for a shoulder injury and admitted following the accident near Lake Jacksonville.

State police and sheriff's deputies said that the accident occurred when Dawson, who was the driver and lone occupant of the vehicle, lost control of his car as it passed over some holes in the road, skidded on loose gravel and careened into an embankment.

Dawson was thrown from the vehicle. The heavily damaged vehicle was removed from the scene, located near the Boy Scout cabin. Police listed the time of the incident about three o'clock.

City police reported two cars damaged as a result of a collision at the intersection of East Morton and South East street about four o'clock.

Officers said that a westbound car, driven by John M. Hutchens of 2019 Mound was struck by a southbound auto, operated by Fern M. Peters of 107 Prairie.

About one hour earlier, city police investigated a traffic accident in the 100 block of North Main.

Officers said that a northbound car, driven by Mary F. Kirkham of Rushville was struck by another auto, operated by Audrey L. Brainer of route one, when the Brainer car pulled from a parking place.

One driver was ticketed following a two vehicle accident at about three o'clock Saturday afternoon about two miles west of Jacksonville on Ill. 104.

Investigating state police reported that a westbound truck being operated by Robert Hadden, 23, of route one, Jacksonville was attempting a left turn onto a private drive when his truck was struck from the rear by an auto attempting to pass, and driven by 36 year Ethel R. Grady, of Chapin.

The late model Grady auto sustained heavy damage, but was driven from the scene. State police reported that the turn signals on the Hadden truck were not working properly at the time of the accident, and a ticket was issued.

Mutual Radio Network Is Sold

NEW YORK (AP) — A newly formed company purchased the Mutual Broadcasting System from Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co. Saturday.

The new parent company is Mutual Broadcasting Corp., formed earlier this year as Mutual Industries, Inc.

The joint announcement by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing, the network's owner since 1960, and the new parent company did not disclose the sale price.

The chairman of the board of directors and president of the new owner is John P. Fraim, former vice president of the L.M. Berry Co., Dayton, Ohio.

Fraim said the network's new parent firm plans significant expansion in additional areas of communications. Fraim said, "Robert F. Hurligh will continue as president and chief executive officer of the network, together with other members of the network's management group." Hurligh has held the presidency of the network since 1959.

The Mutual Broadcasting System was formed in 1934. It became a coast-to-coast network in 1938 and presently has nearly 500 affiliated radio stations. All MBS stations are independently owned and operated.

'Hey, Real Sand!' Youngsters Flock To Finished Beach

"Hey, real sand!"

This was the cry of a flock of youngsters who visited Sandy Beach Saturday for a swim.

Opening day ceremonies will be held off for a while until the finishing touches can be applied, but swimming is here now.

Aldermen Homer Baptist and Carl Bourn saw several weeks of work and toil highlighted by the cry of delight as swimmers moved into the supervised beach area on the north shore of Lake Jacksonville yesterday afternoon.

Volunteers made the swimming beach possible. Many volunteers gave of their skills and labor to bring the beach to the opening, and many others donated money and materials.

Work still to be completed includes a 12 by 12-foot concrete pad in front of both doors of the beach house, connect the showers, install another section of fence, some painting and a serious effort to grow grass outside the sand area.

Alderman Baptist said these things would be completed as soon as possible.

Tentative Hours
Saturday, the beach was open from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m. Tentative hours in the future will be from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. The beach will be cleared about 8:45 p.m. so that all swimmers can be out of the beach house by 9 p.m.

Admission will be 25-cents for children and 40-cents for adults. The charge is for swimming all day. Those who leave and wish to return later will be stamped for that particular day and be allowed to return without further charge.

Four lifeguards will be on duty during peak periods and at other times there will be three. Friday evening and Saturday volunteers were: Tom Crabtree, Harry Simonds, Clayton Stephenson and Son, Clarence Belzer and Bryce Wall.

Volunteers who worked during the evening last week were: Tuesday, J. E. Belzer, M. C. Schell, Clarence Belzer, Tom Crabtree, H. I. Simonds, Tom Murray, Chick Alderman, Orville Price, Clayton, Tom and Joe Stephenson, Bobby Freitag.

A Leap Backward By Red China

The Pekingologists would like very much to know just what's going on in Red China. It's doubtful if even the Chinese themselves will know what really happened until the current "cultural revolution" has run its course and the long-range effects begin to come home.

What's going on in China is far more than an ordinary, run-of-the-mill purge of the Communist hierarchy. The entire educational system of the country is being reorganized.

Scholarship is out and utter dedication to the truths of communism and the teachings of Mao Tse-tung is in. The purpose of education is no longer to be the training of skills but the fighting of the class struggle.

Entrance examinations for all colleges and universities have been postponed for six months because the schools have become "citadels of bourgeois thought and reactions." Students will henceforth be admitted not on the basis of their abilities but on the basis of their ideological purity.

It is all being done at the demand of the masses, proclaims "The People's Daily," the official organ of the regime. According to a petition supposedly presented to the government by high school students in Peking, the present educational system "induced many young people to bury themselves in books in preparation for going to college, instead of studying for the revolution."

Apparently all students who would have entered college in the interim are now to bury themselves in "volunteer" labor in factories or in the country to "eradicate the difference between physical and mental labor" and thus hasten the day of absolute equality among all China's citizens.

To help achieve this equality, a revival of the discredited commune system is also being undertaken.

China seems deliberately to have launched a "great leap backward" into a new dark age of the mind which, if successful, could indefinitely delay her entrance into the modern world community of nations.

Chinese scientists recently synthesized insulin in the laboratory for the first time, something not yet achieved in the West. Now all the old textbooks are being thrown out of the schools and all the old teachers are being indoctrinated.

It is almost as if an entire nation were committing intellectual suicide. The consequences to China — and to the world — can hardly be estimated at this time.

Negroes Make Big Strides (Not in March) in Ol' Miss

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

The Mississippi civil rights marchers plodded through has changed significantly on the racial front. But the marchers had very little to do with it.

Veteran observers in the state say the march probably will produce only a negligible advance in Negro voting registration. They even suggest that, left to themselves, Mississippi Negro leaders like Charles Evers of the NAACP might well produce better gains.

Since the Voting Rights Act of 1965 took effect, some 30,000 additional Negroes have registered in Mississippi — lifting the total to 132,000. By one estimate, the figure may rise to 175,000 by the next statewide election in 1967.

There are other changes, some measurable in figures, some not. All but a score of Mississippi's 149 school districts have indicated compliance with federal guidelines on school desegregation. According to one observer:

"The situation can be described as good, healthy tokenism . . . Mississippians have undertaken desegregation in some places where people said it would never happen."

Fourteen Negroes attended the University of Mississippi (Ol' Miss) in the 1965-66 year, and 30 are enrolled in summer sessions. It was here, of course, that James Meredith, initiator of the present march, broke the bushel for No. 2 grade.

If Reagan Wins: Pressure To Stay Out Of '68 Race

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Some very strong-minded conservative Republicans think Ronald Reagan should quickly announce that if he wins the California governorship in November he will not be a presidential candidate in 1968.

A few fear that if he does not do this he might be seriously hurt this autumn by Democratic Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown's certain portrayal of him as a man uninterested in serving a full term in Sacramento.

One western Republican privately predicts that within California from many quarters, the pressure on Reagan to take himself out of 1968 will mount sharply in the weeks ahead.

The larger aspect of this, however, is the conviction of many conservatives friendly to Reagan that 1968 is simply too soon—that he has to prove himself as a big-state governor, if he gets the job.

Typical of this view is Tom Stagg, GOP national committeeman for Louisiana, who is something of a bellwether for southern conservatives within the party.

Stagg believes that any early push for Reagan would roll waters in the South and other areas that today are being nicely smoothed for Richard M. Nixon.

Nobody in party leadership positions questions that Nixon will be strengthened as the conservatives' choice if Reagan rules himself out. But at this stage it cannot be regarded as automatic that Nixon would be handed California's 90-odd 1968 convention delegates on a Reagan platter. And they could be key to Nixon's hopes.

A top California Republican told some of his party associates at the recent GOP National Committee meeting here that Nixon, for all his heralded service to the Goldwater cause in 1964, is still not in high favor in his old home state. Well-remembered is his 1962 defeat at Brown's hands.

An elected Reagan asserting strong state leadership could very likely force the situation for Nixon, if it came to that. He could lock up the delegates by declaring his favorite son status.

A primary challenge from Michigan's Gov. George Romney would, in those circumstances, be improbable. Reagan thereafter could plan an appropriate delivery of delegates to Nixon.

Any less firm show of authority by Reagan might open the way for a breakoff of some delegates for the moderates' choice, Romney.

The matter might prove a bit tantalizing for Reagan. He has had astonishing success so far in persuading not only many California voters but also quite a few seasoned party professionals that he has moved away from hardrock conservatism. The national committee meeting reflected this in corridor conversations.

To win over Brown, Reagan himself declares, he will have to move even farther to the center.

Should he be elected, the hard necessities of coping with a $4 billion-plus budget might give Reagan a still more moderate look. In a state with population careening upward, he would be sitting on a cauldron of problems unmatched anywhere in the nation.

Where such a posture and performance would leave his most ardent conservative admirers is a little unclear. One midwestern GOP leader, a moderate, believes any sizable Reagan victory in November would produce an immediate, dramatic surge for him which "wait until 1972" conservatives and Reagan would be unable to hold back.

An eastern Republican thinks that, at the least, such a triumph would instantly "reactivate the nuts." It is being argued, too, that their emotional attachment to him—and that of many less radical types—would endure no matter what Reagan might actually do as governor. And this just might further complicate his political life.

FINDING THE WAY

The Rose: Symbol of Hope

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Of all of the flowers, roses have the most romantic names and historical associations. Linked with wars and battles, kings and queens, stars of opera and theater, men's hopes and dreams from peace to fantasy have found their namesakes among the roses.

Among my memories is a personal association. I remember the "Mason jar" garden in our back yard. That was where the memory roses were started. A rose given on Mother's Day, one carried by a bride, or another shared on some happy occasion found a place under the protection of a glass jar and so began the growth into a rosebush. To the uninitiated, the sight of the little plot of 15 or 20 jars was a humorous addition to the garden. To the family, this was the perpetuation of the memory of a happy event. The professional name of the rose had acquired a personal name.

I recall this when I think of the problems encountered in keeping rose gardens alive in the midst of our cities. When we planted a hedge of floribunda along a walk leading to the church, there were those who insisted that this was a bid for disappointment. Yet across the years these roses have bloomed for many months of each season, justifying their existence. They are a daily witness to the meaning of beauty, a quiet challenge to much of the ugliness that litters nearby streets and clutter the neighborhoods.

Gertrude Stein said that "a rose is a rose is a rose," thus insisting that it was something more than perfume, decoration or possession. It is this quiet protest that the rose in its own way calls for a kind of dignity and meaning for the whole of life. I understand this because I have this memory of beauty.

Suppose there were no roses. Suppose that a youngster grew up in a neighborhood where there are only broken jars littering the streets. Suppose there is no one to really care what happens. Plan a city in this way, tolerate conditions of this kind, or hide in some suburban ghetto and memory is denied to a child. Even when vandals destroy such gardens, they are worth replanting. To allow the jungle to take over is to deny some child a memory.

I stand at a bedside and hear a human being, almost in a coma, repeat a verse of Scripture learned as a child. I listen to an elderly person tell of a Scriptural story learned years ago. But what of those who have no memories? What comforting television commercial learned by some bright youngster, can be repeated 80 years from now when the body fails? I worry about the children who will never have the memory of someone patiently planting a rose in the garden under a jar or a verse of Scripture from childhood days.

Some of our social situations are so complicated that it is easy enough to retreat in confusion and allow ugliness to take over. Yet there are places in our cities and in our homes where the individual can protest by individual action. With some imagination, a vacant lot can become a playground. With a little planning, a rose becomes a symbol of hope. Isaiah dreamt of a wilderness and the solitary place blooming like a rose. I dream of the city and the crowded areas—our modern wilderness—blooming like a rose.

Out of Horror: Sagacity

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Would you like to know why one of Europe's most noted psychoanalysts thinks that young people must be required to make their own sex decisions?

In several columns this spring I reported to you on this requirement as it has been accepted by a group of distinguished American psychiatrists and other leaders in the field of sex education. But nobody has told us why it has been accepted.

Now, within the coming two weeks, among other things, you will be told why this obligation must be placed upon young people by one of the psychoanalysts whose thinking I most deeply trust. He is Dr. Viktor E. Frankl, president of the Austrian Medical Society of Psychotherapy and professor of psychiatry and neurology at the University of Vienna. For I have been permitted by his publisher, Alfred A. Knopf, to offer you passages from his great book "The Doctor and the Soul."

Dr. Frankl spent the years of World War II in the concentration camps of Auschwitz and Dachau. A trained psychiatrist and psychoanalyst, he is now one of the survivors of the darkest night of all separate the men from the boys.

the dark nights of the soul without coming out of it with deep truth.

Trained to compassion, trained for the healing of the soul, you can't spend four years amidst the bestial horrors of an Auschwitz and Dachau without getting everything you ever believed about your fellow humans tested, tested, tested.

Isn't just your psychological knowledge that's tested. It's not just your "emotional stability" that gets ground down. It's not just your ethics—those rules that govern your decency in human relationship—that are exposed to the utmost in violation.

It's your spirit that is put through the mill of decision for or against faith in man.

I love this book of Dr. Frankl's. Maybe the passages from it I have culled for you will be lost in the shuffle of chaos and sensation-craving craziness that has become the sex climate of this country. I don't know. I do know this—that everything I have ever felt that approaches love for anyone in sex or out of it responds completely to the things this good man says.

Incidentally, he is very fond that, at the least, such a triumph would instantly "reactivate the nuts." It is being argued, too, that their emotional attachment to him—and that of many less radical types—would endure no matter what Reagan might actually do as governor. And this just might further complicate his political life.

Dear Ann:

Learns to Live With Problem

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: When I married my husband 15 years ago, I thought he was a social drinker. We were engaged for two years and I never once saw him drink to excess during that time.

Shortly after our marriage I learned my husband had to have "just one drink" before attending a social gathering. He also needed "just one drink" before making a phone call to his brother or his boss.

Soon it became "just two," then "just three"—then four. When he began to lose whole weekends I knew he was in deep trouble.

Eventually we lost our home, our credit and our friends. It became fairly obvious that he was having all the drinking and I was having all the hangover. I agonized over the bum checks and the bouts with the police. I withdrew from him, ashamed to face the neighbors.

I threatened, I screamed, I cried—I begged him to stop drinking. He lost 11 jobs in two years. But his drinking continued.

After some serious soul-searching, I came to the conclusion that I had become a partner in his alcoholism by covering up for him and suffering the consequences of his drinking. In my self-pity, I had neglected myself and our four children.

I went back to my church, joined a reading club, became active in community activities, concentrated on the children and told my husband to get help or go down the drain—by himself.

Since I stopped trying to change him and instead decided to change myself I have been 100 per cent happier. The children are more loving and helpful. I no longer cry for the things I lost; I'm now thankful for the things I have.

It's difficult to watch my husband walk through the door, unsteady from drinking, but I say nothing because I know how he must suffer from his feelings of weakness and inadequacy. I pity him now—instead of hating him as I once did.

I know the hell of living with an alcoholic, but I know, too, that half of that hell is self-inflicted. There is help for alcoholism but unless the drunk wants to accept it, it is useless to nag him. I hope that one day he WILL seek help but until then I'm going to hold up my head and enjoy life. —FORMER PARTNER IN CRIME

Dear Former Partner: Yours is one of the most eloquent and constructive letters I've ever received on this subject. I'm deeply grateful to you.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a waitress in a cafe, age 18. While I'm no Doris Day I don't look like Lassie, either.

For some mysterious reason I seem to attract nothing but married men and liars. Most of the men I go out with are the ones who come to the cafe to eat. When a man asks if he can take me out after work I make it a rule to ask if he is married. The answer is always "No." After a few dates I find out that he lied to me. The last flake had four kids. Why do I keep picking lemons? —ANGEL PUSS

Dear Angel: Because you are picking in a lemon grove. Peaches don't grow there. The best contacts are made through friends and social, political or church groups. You may not realize it, but you're being picked up, Girl.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Those GI Rations Really Last

By GAYNOR MADDOX

Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—I have two sons in the armed services. I've been wondering how long those canned rations they get stay good? Do you know?

A—At the Natick, Mass., laboratories of the U.S. Army, food technologists recently opened a canned ration packed in 1916. The contents were taste-tested and all components were found to still be in edible condition. The can contained three 1-ounce chocolate bars, 1 gram pepper, ½-ounce salt, ½-pound bread, and a meat component.

The directions for preparing the bread and meat suggested that they could be eaten dry, stirred into cold water, boiled as a soup, or made into a thick porridge to be eaten hot or cold.

In summarizing the testing, the Natick laboratories report said: "The container components and the packaging material of the World War I Emergency Ration show a good state of preservation and quality more than 46 years from date of pack."

From the Jacksonville Sentinel:

The celebration of the National Anniversary in this city, by the Odd Fellows, was certainly the finest demonstration of the kind that has occurred here for years. A fine shower during the night of the 3d effectually laid the dust and cooled the air. At an early hour the amphitheater, which will seat ten thousand people, was filled with a living mass, while the outer grounds appeared to swarm with people, there being probably about 15,000 in attendance. All went merrily as a marriage bell.

Mr. Wm. H. Ashburn is duly authorized, as our traveling agent, to receive and receipt for subscriptions to the SENTINEL in the several precincts of Morgan, also to contract for job work and advertising at our customary rates. J. R. Bailey, Pub.

A STEAM PRESS—Our radical contemporary, the JOURNAL, is now being printed on a large new cylinder press, by steam power. This is the first steam press ever put up in our city, and therefore decidedly a local sensation item. We congratulate our neighbors on this evidence of business thrift.

The new Jacksonville City Cemetery (Diamond Grove) was formally dedicated with religious ceremonies, on yesterday. We are informed that the plans adopted for the improvement of the new grounds will require an expenditure of some $7,000 to carry them out.

From the Carrollton Gazette: Carrollton is beginning to assume the airs of a city. On Saturday there were no less than three runaways.

The present number of the GAZETTE closes its twentieth volume. It will soon be old enough to vote.

On Saturday our town was visited by about a dozen Indians, who created some amusement among the boys by their maneuvering, but seemed well disposed and after their curiosity was satisfied they departed.

July 4th was duly celebrated at Kersey Springs, two miles west of Wilmington, in this country, some 1,500 to 2,000 people being present. Whisky, rum, free fights and rows prevailed at the outskirts of the crowd, while promiscuous fiddling and dancing occupied the center, during the day, until 5 o'clock, when it left. But we understand it all continued until the morning with many bruised heads and a considerable display of blood.

From the Beardstown Central Illinoisian: The natal date of American Independence was celebrated here yesterday in the good old fashioned style that universally prevailed fifty years ago.

During the evening hours more than two hundred dollars worth of fireworks were discharged from the ferry boat as it was anchored in the middle of the river. The blaze in the sky and the reflection from the water made the scenic effect doubly grand to the beholders.

Our readers, we trust, will excuse us for being behind time with this issue. Well, as you appreciate, the Fourth comes but once a year and two of our printers began celebrating the event on Tuesday, and are celebrating it yet. However, we will try to do better next week.

A feeling in Paris and London to the effect that the war so far as Italy was concerned, is almost ended; but the Florence dispatches state that their people are determined to conquer.

Eight hours' work, eight hours' sleep, and eight shillings a day is the motto of an association of workmen in Lancashire, England.

A trial has been made at Florence of a cuirass of aluminum, which is as light as an ordinary waist-coat, nearly as flexible, and capable of turning a musket-ball fired at the distance of thirty-eight paces, and of resisting a bayonet thrust from the heaviest hand. Each cuirass costs only twenty-five francs. Two regiments are, it is said, to be immediately provided with them.

Mr. James Shea, a rich old bachelor of St. Louis, died recently, leaving the bequest of $100,000 to the Hospital of the Sisters of Charity, in that city, in which institution, when poor and friendless, he had received medical care and nursing.

The return of the number of immigrants that arrived at Quebec from the 1st of May to the 15th of June, 1866, shows that the total for the period was 17,266. This is an increase of 10,315 over the total of the same period last year. Of the total, nearly 11,000 were Norwegians, mostly bound for the Western States. British immigrants form but an insignificant proportion of the whole.

The Charleston (S.C.) Courier gives an account of the decoration of the graves of the rebel dead at Greenville, S.C. It says over a thousand persons participated in the exercise. The order of procession embraced eleven young ladies clad in white, and representing the several Confederate States. Most of the stores of the village were closed, and the bells of the churches were tolled.

Plant Corn 'Golfballs' In 1975?

Some day the farmer may be fracturing the soil with ultrasonic waves and planting "golfballs" containing a corn kernel surrounded by a chemical compound. These were two of the long-range predictions recently hazarded by agricultural engineer H. V. Hansen of Moline at the 1966 annual meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers on the campus of the University of Massachusetts, Amherst.

Hansen, who is chief product engineer for the John Deere Planter Works, said other possibilities for planting in 1975 are:

—zero tillage, by killing all vegetation with chemicals either before or after planting, then metering corn kernels into a very narrow trench.

—a grain drill metering device to replace the corn planter seed plates, as sizing of seed corn becomes unnecessary.

—sterilizing the soil electronically as it is "tilled" by fracturing with electronic waves.

"Chemically speaking, will all of the chemicals now applied separately be combined into a single compound?" Hansen asked. "If so, will the corn kernel be inside this compound and will we be planting golfballs or baseballs?"

Great Labor Reduction

Pointing out that the labor necessary to produce 100 bushels of corn has been reduced from 344 man hours in 1800 to less than one hour, or 36 seconds of labor per bushel, in 1966, Hansen credited the co-operation of the agronomist, entomologist, chemist, engineer and farmer.

"The agricultural engineer's greatest problem is to keep abreast of the scientific advances made by the research groups to increase yields and reduce costs so that equipment will be available that will duplicate research results in large scale operations," he said.

"Farmer acceptance to changes in cultural practice in the last five years indicates that the only thing that is constant in this highly specialized business of farming is change."

Fast Changes

Hansen said the change from 40-inch to 30-inch corn rows in the last 12 to 18 months had brought about the fastest change in planting equipment he has seen in 25 years of designing such equipment.

He described a farmer's machine complex as used in the spring of 1975 as consisting of a tractor "equipped with a supercharger which developed approximately 135 drawbar horsepower. Dual wheels were installed on the front end and also on the rear. Mounted on the tractor front end was an anhydrous ammonia tank for applying nitrogen. In the three-point links was a 20-foot field cultivator. Mounted on the cultivator was a granular insecticide attachment and a liquid herbicide attachment for full width insecticide and herbicide application. A hitch was then made especially to pull an eight-row 30-inch corn planter behind the field cultivator. On the planter were tillage teeth working the soil in a band in the row. Also on the planter was a liquid fertilizer attachment. This machinery complex prepared a seed bed in plowed ground and planted 110 acres a day with only one man."

Illinois Farm OUTLOOK

PORK PRODUCTION AHEAD OF SEASON?

The nation's pork factories may be running ahead of schedule: In December farmers reported that they would boost the 1966 spring pig crop by 7 percent. The actual increase was 10 percent, according to the Pig Crop Report issued by the USDA late in June.

While the 1966 spring pig crop of 47 million head was 10 percent larger than that of last year, it was 2 percent smaller than that of 1964 and 5 percent smaller than the five-year 1960-64 average.

The spring pig crop includes all pigs born from December 1 to June 1. These pigs are marketed mostly from about July 1 to January 1.

From this information we might conclude that market supplies of hogs will be about 10 percent larger during the last half of this year than in 1965. There is some evidence, however, that the increase may be less than 10 percent, especially during July, August and September.

For example, the number of hogs and pigs being fed for market in ten leading states on June 1 was only 6 percent more than a year before.

The number weighing 120 to 220 pounds was practically the same as last year. These hogs will make up much of the market supply during July and August.

The number of pigs weighing under 120 pounds on June 1 was up only 8 percent from a year before. They will provide most of the pork for early September through December.

We expect hog prices to remain at very profitable levels during the rest of this year. Consumer buying power will be very strong, though pork will meet record competition from both beef and poultry.

Prices of hogs — barrows and gilts at ten markets — averaged about $24.50 in July and August a year ago. They may do at least as well this summer.

The fall price decline may be moderate. There does not appear to be any great number of March-April pigs to come to market in the late fall. In recent years the average decline in prices from summer to winter has been only about $2.00.

Now what are prospects for next fall? Hog producers reporting to the USDA in June intended to increase fall farrowings 10 percent over last year's low level. Their intentions point to a fall pig crop of 41.8 million head.

A fall pig crop of this size would exceed that of two years ago by 3 percent but would still be 3 percent short of the five-year 1959-63 average.

A second-round increase in hog production will begin next winter if hog prices hold at $20 or above this fall. The 1967 spring pig crop may be near 50 million head, the largest since 1963, when farmers saved 51 million spring pigs.

Prices will fluctuate around a declining trend line during the

Prairie Rose Now Extinct?

By ARTHUR THATCHER

JERSEYVILLE — When the first pioneers of Jersey county arrived here, they found growing in the open prairie land away from the wooded areas prairie rose bushes of large size.

The species was entirely different from the small, trailing type of wild rose that may still be found along roadsides today, but the large prairie species is considered extinct in the locality with possibly one exception.

When the late Henry Horner was governor of Illinois, he took great personal interest in the preservation of the then rapidly disappearing native wild flowers, trees and bushes. Among these was the giant prairie rose.

Search In Jersey

He requested a survey be made to determine if any of the species remained in this part of Illinois. The late Thomas Cummings was the Jersey county game warden at that time and conducted the search in this area.

Three of the bushes were found. A large one was found growing on a pasture tract of what was once known as the Orville A. Snedeker farm near the southern city limits. The pasture for years had been identified as original, never plowed Illinois prairie.

The bush there had a minimum diameter of 25 feet and a maximum height of 15 feet. The second bush found was in an area northwest of Fieldon. It was not so large as the specimen found on the Snedeker land.

Transplants Perish

The third one was found on the farm of Walter Felter west of Jerseyville, and grew in close proximity to a cross land fence. It was the smallest of the three. Several roots were taken from the Felter bush and set out in Jerseyville where they grew to a height of about eight feet.

The bushes growing in Jerseyville died the spring following a severe winter. The cause was never determined unless the locality was not suitable.

Walter Felter who still resides on and operates the Felter farm was a Jerseyville visitor recently and stated that there may still be some of the old rose bush alive at his place. "A fire got into it several years ago," Felter stated, "and about ended it. There may, however, still be a few shoots growing up from the old roots."

Francis H. McGrath of the Jacksonville office, Farmers Home Administration, attended the summer conference of the American Society of Farm Managers and Appraisers in Fort Collins, Colo., last month.

More than 300 professional farm managers and appraisers from across the United States and Canada participated in the program held on the campus of Colorado State University.

McGrath joined in an intensive study tour of farm management and appraisal problems at the John Watson farm north of Greeley. He also visited the Ted Sutter feedlot, an intermediate size operation, and the Montfort feeding operations near Greeley. The Montfort is one of Colorado's largest and most modern beef feeding feedlots.

FARM INCOME UP
IN FIRST FOUR MONTHS OF SIXTY SIX!

According to a recent agricultural letter from the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, farm income for the first four months of this year totaled more than $12 billion dollars — up 17% from the same period in 1965.

Prices received by farmers January thru May were 11% higher than a year ago. The recent decline can be attributed to lower livestock prices.

Volume of crops sold during the first four months was 13% above 1965. This boost reflects delayed sales of last year's crops which many farmers apparently held in anticipation of higher prices and to defer income into 1966. The increase in livestock marketing reflects the beginning of a turn around in hog production as well as continued high levels of beef and broiler marketings.

HUMORS of the day

July, 1866

The last case of indolence is related in one of our exchanges. It is that a man named John Hole, who was so lazy that in writing his name, he simply pushed the letter J, and then pushed a hole through the paper.

Why are jokes like nuts? Because the drier they are the easier they crack.

Why is a dairy-maid naturally the happiest of women? Because she always has her own whey.

What is it that has two buildings, two trees, two animals, and two fish? The human body — viz, two temples, two palms, two calves, and two soles.

"Can you do all sorts of casting here?" said a solemn-looking chap at the iron works the other day. "Yes," said Frank, preparing to take his order. "Well, then," returned the solemn inquirer, "I would like for you to cast a shadow." He was cast out.

Artificial Astronauts

By WALTER B. HENDRICKSON JR.

Eight "artificial astronauts" now are orbiting earth in an orbit ranging between 430 and 2,000 miles above earth. These "artificial astronauts" are of eight spheres containing materials with the same characteristics as human tissues.

The "artificial astronauts" were launched into orbit from Wallops Island, Va., on June 10 by a Scout rocket like the one shown in the picture. The satellite it carried is the Air Force's OV-3-4 (Orbiting Vehicle 3-4).

Study Dangers
The purpose of OV-3-4 is to investigate the dangers of radiation to astronauts at altitudes much higher than a Gemini spacecraft can reach. OV-3-4 will continue sending back useful information for about a year—much longer than either a Gemini or Apollo spacecraft could stay up.

As it reaches its apogee (greatest distance from earth) OV-3-4 passes through the most dangerous part of the lower Van Allen belt.

Our Apollo astronauts must pass through this region of deadly radiation on their way to the moon. Also, future manned orbiting laboratories may orbit in this area if their crews can be properly protected against its radiation.

Plastic Spheres
The eight "artificial astronauts" are plastic spheres, the largest of which is six inches wide. They are equipped with sensors to measure radiation energy deposits as OV-3-4 whizzes along its orbit. The spheres were designed by scientists in the Air Force's Weapons Laboratory at Kirtland AFB, New Mexico.

Inside the plastic spheres are ion (electrically charged particles) chambers filled with tissue-equivalent materials. These instruments are giving readings on the amount of space radiation which would affect a man's skin, his blood-forming organs and gastro-intestinal tract.

Seek Accuracy
The primary purpose of OV-3-4 is to gather more information for the Air Force's radiation forecasting computers. This will help improve the accuracy of the predictions of the kind and degree of radiation our astronauts will face. On past Gemini flights the predictions have been within 20 per cent of the actual amount of radiation the astronauts have received. The Air Force, however, is aiming for 100 per cent accuracy.

In passing the OV-3-4 is also giving measurements of the Van Allen belt, and is gauging the decay of the remainder of the man-made Starfish Belt. The Starfish Belt was created by an atomic explosion set off 1,000 miles above earth on July 9, 1962.

OV-3 is the first of the first of the Air Force's OV satellites to be launched from Wallops Island. The others were launched from Vandenberg AFB, Calif., starting with OVI. OV-3-4 was made by Space General Corp., of Los Angeles, while General Dynamics Convair of San Diego built two OVI satellites. The Scout rockets are produced by the Ling-Temco-Vought Aerospace Corp. of Dallas.

JERRY'S DISCOVERY

By John Rankin

Mr. Ike the old prospector is ordered not to graze his mule in town, and is finally jailed but soon breaks out and disappears. Jerry's parents fear for the old man's safety in the wilds.

"But he's too old to remain in the hills," Mom pointed out. "Perhaps if he'd turn himself in the judge would be lenient and let him off with a light sentence."

"He might even let him off with a suspended sentence, or put him on probation, maybe," Dad agreed. "But since the old fellow will likely remain in hiding where Sherlock Holmes himself couldn't find him, I see no point in taking up his case with the judge."

Mom gave Dad a thoughtful look across the table, her eyes searching his as she studied him briefly. "But William, you could speak to Judge Harper," she said quietly. "I'm sure that if you'd explain to him he'd reduce the charge against the old fellow."

Dad thought that over a moment and said, "Okay, I'll do it. Maybe I can at least soften the judge up a little just in case the old hombre decides to show up and face the music."

Jerry Searches
At the break of dawn a week later Jerry paused at a point deep in the mountains to examine the faint markings of a footpath of sorts leading off to his right. Convinced that he was on the right track he pushed on at a faster pace until the trail ended abruptly at a huge rock cliff against the side of a hill.

And as he stood there bewildered and uncertain of his next move a slight sound came from behind the ledge. Then as if by magic the thing slowly swung open before his very eyes and the old prospector and his mule emerged from a great cave in the side of the mountain!

"Mr. Ike!" Jerry gasped, "No wonder the sheriff couldn't find you up here."

Secret Door
The grizzled old-timer reached out a hand to give the jubilant youngster a playful pat on the shoulder. "Reckon the sheriff feller and his men didn't know where to look, son," he said with a sly grin. "Not many folks know about the secret door to this old Indian cave."

"Hey! An Indian cave with a secret door!" Jerry exclaimed. "Even the F.B.I. couldn't find a guy living in there."

"Reckon they couldn't, son," the veteran backwoodsman acknowledged with pride. Then he took the astonished youth inside the cave and showed him an ancient but cleverly designed device that opened and closed the great door.

Peephole
His eyes lighting up with interest and excitement Jerry examined the strange gimmick hurriedly and then turned his attention to a beam of light streaming in through an opening in the wall.

"Hey! Get a load of this peephole!" he exclaimed. "A guy could hide out in here and see everything on the outside for miles away."

"Seems that the Indians thought of just about everything, son."

Always
Two Sides
By Mary Pence Claywell

You can count them by the dozens.
The canines hanging 'round.
You'll see them in the city,
the country-side and town:
Some have a great long pedigree,
And some are alley stripe
But pedigree or mongrel,
They still, are much alike:
They act, sometimes, like humans,
Some friendly some that jaw,
And some that bite, or damage,
Like a man... who breaks the law:
Most frisk around in play and fun,
But there's the other type...
That bark and snarl, and run down cars
Or a youngster on a bike:
And yet they clean up garbage that draws the pesky fly.
And some talk share a little more, slipped out, upon the sly:
It behooves us to consider, those "good," and "of no worth,"
For a dog desires his freedom, more than anything on earth:
But still, we never should condone the ones that fight and

Let's Go Birding

Six Wrens

By Emma Mae Leonhard

In our last article we promised to introduce our readers to our six species of wrens that we have seen or heard already in 1966. We have also been fortunate in finding these six kinds, for six is the maximum number for our area.

In general our wrens do look somewhat alike: they are small, brownish, bright-eyed, active, and industrious. They seem to talk with their tails.

Their songs are clear and penetrating. But like human beings, they are also different and visible us during different seasons.

Winter Visitors
We shall start at the beginning, January, 1966. Then most people don't expect to see a wren; yet there are two kinds of wrens with us during our bleak, icy, snowy winters: the Carolina Wren and the Winter Wren. It is not unusual for a winter hiker to catch from the silent weeds a burst of song, a kind of clear whistle or chirruping.

If he watches quietly, he may detect the singer—a plump cinnamon-brown wren with a conspicuous white stripe over each eye. Its pert tail is thrust up in the air. This is the Carolina Wren, larger than our House Wren—the wren that is with us all year round.

Likes Nuts
In the winter it may seek shelter in the sleeve or pocket of an old coat hung out on a porch. It likes nut meats in the bird feeder.

The Winter Wren is scarcer, although several of us saw it during late winter days near Lake Mauvaisterre and along Mauvaisterre Creek. It is tinner and darker than the House Wren: has a much stiffer tail which it holds up and tips further forward than its wren cousins do; and is often found among roots and brush-piles along streams. It does not sing while visiting us, but leaves us

Once while in Tim-Buc-too, I chanced to find,
A leopard and wolf,
Or monster of some kind
It had a large, green head,
With spots of red,
It roared ferociously,
"Hi," I said.

It was ten feet tall,
Its head occupied nine,
I touched its fur,
I said "Oh, how fine

It came at me with its power,
It said "that's not kind,"
I tore out
And left it behind.

to sing in the Northeast and Northwest in the spring and summer.

Springtime
As spring comes, we put up our wren boxes and wait for the singing tenants to take possession. We greet our House Wrens with familiarity.

Yet there are three other spring wren visitors: the Bewick's, the Short-billed Marsh Wren, and the Long-billed Marsh Wren. The Bewick's also nests with us, even in our wren boxes.

Unfortunately this wren, with the long tail with white spots in the corners and the white stripe over the eye, is becoming scarcer. We have heard only one Bewick's Wren this spring.

We luckily found both kinds of marsh wrens in May: the Short-billed in the sedgy fence line along the overflowing Mauvaisterre and the Long-billed in the same area. We had to identify the latter by its song which came to us from the flooded area. It is very shy and prefers to hide in cattails, which were near the spot.

We have fulfilled our promise: six kinds of wrens in our area.

MOUSE TAIL

Once there was a little mouse. He had a tail so long his brothers tripped over it.

His brothers' names were Tom and Dick. The little mouse's name was Jim.

His mother's name was Mom. The father's name was Dad.

But Mom didn't want to be a mouse. Neither did the rest of them so they wished and wished and they became people.

NICHOLS PARK LADIES DAY GOLF NEWS

Gee, It's sure good to be back again! Needless to say — I won't be climbing any more fences — even if I lose a dozen balls!

The play for the day was — "Remorseful Golf," and it certainly was that!

Each player had the privilege of making her opponent play over any four shots she considered lucky or couldn't be duplicated. Well, guess who came in with the most worsened shots — yours truly — thanks to Evelyn Cruzan.

Winners — first flight: Low Gross — Sarah Warner; Low Net — Helen Little; Winners second flight — Low Net — Della Birdsall.

Chairman for the day was Marge Howard. I sure thank Marge for all her kindness, and many other nice things she did for me while I was off my feet — but most of all, for writing this article. We all enjoyed them very much. I tried to persuade her to continue since she did such a nice job — but no luck — so guess you will have to put up with me after all. Don't forget now girls — this coming Tuesday, July 12th, will be guest day at Nichols Park — so be sure to come and be there in time for coffee and rolls before tee off. Pairings will be posted in the pro shop. Until then . . . keep cool. Alpha Witham

The council approved the audit by the State of Illinois of the city's books on motor fuel tax.

The monthly treasury report was read by city treasurer Donald Giger and was approved by the council. Street and Alley foreman Carrol Mitchell reported all oiling and chipping of city streets had been completed.

At the close of the session it was brought out that some two dozen street lights were out, due to vandalism in the community. In other business the council was of the opinion that 11 p.m. should be the closing time for the stock car races, held in the west part of town.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coultas of Pittsfield at the Illini Community hospital on July 3.

The expression "counting the hand" represents bridge thought at its best. It also is fairly easy if you get in the habit of starting your count early and bear in mind that when you know how many cards a player holds in three suits then by simple subtraction from 13 you know the total in the fourth.

Everyone at the table except South scraped the bottom of the barrel in order to find bids. With 19 high card points, South was well within bounds when he jumped to three no-trump.

South won the second heart and went to dummy with the queen of clubs in order to lead the ten of diamonds for a finesse. West won with the king and, for want of anything better to do, returned the suit. Usually, when both sides play the same suit one is wrong but this time both sides were playing correctly.

South checked off two hearts for West. Had West held another heart, West would have led that suit. South ran the rest of his diamonds while West followed. Then South took his ace and king of clubs when West discarded on the last club lead. This meant that West had started with five spades and was still holding four of them. East therefore held only one spade.

South played his king of spades. West took his ace and led the suit back. He couldn't do anything else because he was down to spades. South ducked in dummy and let the trick ride around to his ten spot. There was no danger in the play. South knew that East had no more spades just as surely as if East had exposed his hand.

LBJ Driving France To Russia—Findley

Rep. Paul Findley, speaking before the noon luncheon of the Rotary club here Friday, charged that the Johnson administration was driving France further and further toward Soviet Russia.

Findley said that France, who is not a member of the atomic test-ban treaty, is now testing atomic weapons in the Pacific and President Charles de Gaulle's visit to Russia last week might give rise to a working relationship on nuclear research between the two countries.

"The Soviet Union did, of course, sign the treaty, but a working relationship with France would enable the Russians to get their nuclear devices tested above ground without themselves openly violating the treaty," he explained.

Findley pointed out that three years ago, the House Republican Committee on NATO, of which he is chairman, warned that United States policy on nuclear weapons was outmoded and bound to cause trouble within the Atlantic Alliance.

"The fact-finding mission of Paris sponsored last June by the House Republican Conference proposed that the United States recognize the fact that France, like it or not, had become a nuclear power and we should start cooperating with them along the line of developing nuclear capabilities."

Findley said France's apparent present look toward Russia was due in part to the administration's refusal to export computer equipment. France wanted for its weapons technology.

Findley said he was bound for his home in Pittsfield following his appearance here, and then expects to return to 20th congressional district business in Washington Saturday.

Ask RR Flasher For East State

The Gulf Mobile and Ohio and the Chicago Burlington and Quincy railroads asked the Illinois Commerce Commission Friday to order installation of automatic flashing light signals at the East State street crossing here.

The crossing now is protected from 8 a.m. until 4 p.m. by a flagman. The petition asked for a division of costs among the parties involved, including the city of Jacksonville and the state highway division, and that part of the cost to be paid by the Illinois Grade Crossing Fund.

The petition said that East State street is a main connecting route between the downtown district and State Aid Route 1.

Houston Continues Jinx On Cards, 6-1

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Right-handed Bob Bruce, who had won only one of seven previous decisions, and Claude Raymond held St. Louis to three hits Friday night and pitched Houston to a 6-1 victory over the Cardinals.

Pittsburgh Sweeps 2 Games From Mets

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Willie Stargell slammed two homers and Bill Mazeroski socked a grand-slam home run, each driving in seven runs, as the Pittsburgh Pirates swept a doubleheader from the New York Mets 10-2 and 9-2 Friday night.

Stargell clubbed his 20th and 21st home runs, two doubles and two singles. His three-run homer broke a 1-1 tie in the second game, and his two-run double keyed a three-run uprising in the first inning of the first game.

Mazeroski had three hits and three RBIs in the first game, then slugged the second grand slam of his major league career in the sixth of the nightcap.

Stargell slammed an inside-the-park two-run homer in the eighth of the opener.

Says Mantle Didn't Want On Star Team

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP)—Minnesota Manager Sam Mele said Friday night that New York Yankee outfielder Mickey Mantle didn't want to play on the American League All-Star team next Tuesday in St. Louis.

Mele denied that the Yankees had requested that Mantle not be picked.

Mantle called Billy Martin and asked if I was picking him to the American League team," said Mele. "I told him no, that I thought he would welcome the time off. I understand he is happy he wasn't picked. I felt he would really appreciate the days off because of his injuries."

Twin Coach Martin confirmed Mele's report.

Some fans had questioned Mele's action in leaving Mantle off the All-Star team because of his recent home run hitting spree.

Grabowski And Anderson Will Meet As Rivals

ATLANTA (AP)—Jim Grabowski of Illinois and Donny Anderson of Texas Tech, two Green Bay rookies who reportedly cost the Packers close to $1 million, will meet Saturday night as rivals in the All-America football game at Atlanta Stadium.

This game between star players from East and West, most of whom are signed by pro teams, is expected to attract a near-capacity crowd of 50,000 fans to the new park where the Braves play baseball and the Falcons play NFL football. After five years in Buffalo, N.Y., the American Football Coaches Association has moved the game South.

A national television network (ABC) will beam the game in color over 202 stations, with the Atlanta area blacked out.

Game time is 9:30 p.m. EDT. Grabowski, the crashing full-back who broke Red Grange's records at Illinois, will play for the underdog East team, coached by Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State.

Anderson, snared by Green Bay for a reported $600,000 and a future rival to Paul Hornung, will share the West's left half-back job with Mike Garrett of Southern California, the Heisman Award winner. Coach Tommy Prothro of UCLA has listed Garrett as his starter.

FERRARI TO WITHDRAW

MODENA, Italy (AP)—The Ferrari racing stable said Tuesday it would withdraw from the next big international races, and blamed metal worker strikes for its troubles, including its defeat by Ford in the recent 24-hour endurance race at LeMans.

THE BOLSHOI BALLET? No, it's the Stirling, Scotland goalie attempting to block a shot by flinging himself through the air in a soccer match at Athens, Greece.

STEEPLECHASERS Ray Barrus (23) of Los Angeles and Jerry Riordan of Salem, Mass., found the going sloshy on this hazard of the 3,000-meter event. But there were towels, if not cheers, awaiting them at the end.

BALTIMORE MUTUAL—or the Robinsons, Brooks and Frank—is a special kind of life insurance to the Oriole pitching staff. Their spectacular hitting and fielding off-sets slips by Baltimore pitchers.

Alston Picks Alou Instead Of White

CINCINNATI (AP)—Walter Alston, National League All-Star manager, broke with tradition Friday in completing his squad for the interleague game Tuesday in St. Louis.

Alston picked Felipe Alou of Atlanta as his reserve first baseman, thereby passing up Philadelphia's Bill White, who was second to Willie McCovey of the Giants in the voting. Alou, receiving votes as an outfielder in the players' balloting.

And the Dodger manager chose Ron Hunt of the New York Mets as his backup second baseman, bypassing Bill Mazeroski of Pittsburgh, who finished behind Jim Lefebvre of the Dodgers, who will start at second.

Traditionally, the players next in line in the balloting have been named to the All-Star squads.

In the American League, Mickey Mantle of the Yankees was left off the All-Star team for the first time in 13 years.

Manager Sam Mele of Minnesota named Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, Cleveland's Rocky Colavito and Chicago's Tommy Agee as his reserve outfielders.

Boston Sweeps Pair From Sox By 3-1 And 5-1

BOSTON (AP)—Tony Conigliaro broke up Bruce Howard's no-hit bid with a seventh-inning double and then drove in two runs with a triple in the eighth as the Boston Red Sox rallied for a 5-1 victory over Chicago and a sweep of Friday night's doubleheader.

Right-hander Jim Lonborg went the distance for the first time this season, firing a six-hitter and striking out nine in Boston's 3-1 victory in the first game.

Howard hurled hitless ball for six innings in the nightcap and held a 1-0 lead on Ken Berry's homer in the fifth. Conigliaro then opened the seventh with a first-pitch double off the left field wall, went to third on an infield out and scored the tying run on Joe Foy's sacrifice fly.

Howard gave way to relief specialist Bob Locker at the outset of the eighth and the Red Sox exploded for four runs.

In the opener, Foy, a rookie benched earlier this week for lack of hustle, regained his third base job and cracked his fifth homer. He also had a single.

Sox' Scott Finds Spot 'Shocking'

NEW YORK (AP)—Six years ago, George Scott was picking cotton at $5 a day in the fields of Mississippi.

On Tuesday, he will be playing first base for the American League in the All-Star game in St. Louis.

"It's shocking, shocking," the Boston Red Sox rookie said smiling, "Just shocking."

Scott, a 22-year-old strongboy whose lusty hitting earned him the All-Star designation, never played first base in the minors.

"I worked out there in the instructional league and during spring training but played mostly at third."

It was the third base job that Scott won in spring training in a spirited battle with another rookie, Joe Foy.

"We opened with Scott at third and Tony Horton at first," says Red Sox manager Bill Herman. "But after a week or so, I decided that Horton wasn't the answer at first, so I made the switch."

Scott has been the first baseman ever since.

Yankees Gain Split With 7-5 Win In Second

NEW YORK (AP)—Ray Barker's two-run single in the seventh inning led the New York Yankees past Washington 7-5 Friday night after the Senators took the opener of the doubleheader 7-6 on Frank Howard's tie-breaking sacrifice fly in the sixth.

Mickey Mantle homered in each game — for a total of 11 homers in his last 14 starts — and had five hits in the twin bill before being forced out with a pulled leg muscle in the fifth inning of the nightcap.

The Yankees rallied from a 4-0 deficit to take the second game behind rookie Fritz Peterson, 8-5, who was clipped for two runs in each of the first two innings but gave up only five more hits the rest of the way.

Mantle's 450-foot homer in the third — No. 18 this year for the Yankee slugger — ignited a three-run burst and his single in the fifth led to a run that tied the score 4-4.

In the first game, Washington jumped on Mel Stottlemyre for five runs in the first inning but the Yankees battled back to tie the score at 6-6 after five innings.

Powell's Home Run Wins For Orioles 2-1

BALTIMORE (AP)—Boog Powell led off the ninth inning with his 19th homer, bringing American League-leading Baltimore a 2-1 victory over California Friday night. The loss snapped the Angels' winning streak at five.

Powell's decisive shot, off Angels' starter Marceline Lopez, sailed over the right field fence and brought reliever Stu Miller his seventh victory against one loss.

Until the eighth inning Lopez, California's tall left-hander had limited the Orioles to one hit — Luis Aparicio's harmless single in the fourth. He had struck out six and walked none.

But consecutive singles by Sam Bowens, Dave Johnson and Paul Blair produced an Oriole run in the eighth to tie it at 1-1.

Minnesota Blasts Detroit By 6-1

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP)—The Minnesota Twins erupted for five runs after two were out in the fourth inning, including two on pitcher Jim Kaat's home run, and downed Detroit 6-1 Friday night.

Tiger starter Mickey Lolich had retired 11 of the first 13 Twins to face him when things exploded in the fourth.

Lolich walked Earl Battey and Ted Uhlaender doubled him home to tie the score 1-1.

Willie Horton then lost Bob Allison's fly for another double that put the Twins ahead 2-1.

Cesar Tovar's single scored Allison and Kaat followed with his second homer of the season for a 5-1 lead.

Tovar doubled and scored on Zoilo Versalles' single in the seventh for another Minnesota run.

Repoz' Double Moves Athletics To Slim 2-1 Win

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Roger Repoz' double with two out in the eighth inning drove in two runs and gave Kansas City a 2-1 victory over Cleveland Friday night, spoiling a brilliant pitching effect by Sonny Siebert.

Siebert, who earlier this season pitched a no-hitter, held the A's to one hit until pinch hitter Joe Nassek singled with one out in the eighth.

The Indians scored their only run in the seventh when Larry Brown singled, took two bases on a wild pitch and scored on Joe Acuzue's sacrifice fly.

Rodgers Storms Into Open Lead

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP)—Phil Rodgers, of La Jolla, Calif., stormed home in only 30 shots Friday in a remarkable comeback that enabled him to seize the lead in the third round of the British Open Golf Championship while front-runner Jack Nicklaus crumbled on the back nine.

Rodgers pieced together a weird 40-30 for a 70 and 210, three under par.

At the same time Nicklaus, playing just behind him, blew a clear lead with a 36-39—75 that resembled at times a Sunday golfer's game. It put him at 212, one under par.

Muirfield's 6,887-yard par 36—571 links, which has tamed many a man, humbled most of the field of 64.

Nicklaus started the morning at 137, five under par, and after a par 36 on the front nine while Rodgers was taking 40 and the rest of the big challengers were dropping shots here and there, the husky from Columbus, Ohio, looked like a shoo-in.

Only 2 Under Par

When the firing was over only Rodgers and Nicklaus were better than the 54-hole par of 213.

Doug Sanders, Ojai, Calif., shot a 37-35—72 for 213. Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Pa., served notice he was around again with a fine 37-32—69 for 214 along with Dave Thomas of Wales.

Harold Henning of South Africa had a 75 for 215.

The front nine bothered most of the top stars. The west wind off the Firth of Forth was accompanied by blazing sun and a new terror was added to Muirfield's already abundant store. Downhill putts were enough to make a sweating man freeze as they kept going and going.

That is what made Rodgers' feat more remarkable. In that crazy streak of 30 shots on the back nine, he sank putts of six feet on the 15th, 10 feet on the 16th and a short three-footer on the 17th, all for birdies.

He ended the round with a thrilling sand shot which looked for a moment as though it would hole out, but made his par a certainty.

Clark's Super came up with two runs in the bottom of the seventh to notch a 7-6 Pony League triumph over Coca Cola, while league champion Lions took Rotary, 8-5, in the Colt League tilt at Nichols Park Friday night.

Clark's trailed by one entering their final bat before coming up with their game-winning rally. James Parrot whiffed ten batters for the loser.

Lions recovered from a five-run Rotary first with a pair of three-run frames to count their 11th win in 12 outings.

Allen's Homer Wins For Phils, Game Protested

CHICAGO (AP)—Richie Allen's three-run homer in the fifth inning on a 3-0 pitch with two out powered the Philadelphia Phillies to a 5-4 victory over Chicago Friday in a game played under protest by the Cubs.

Manager Leo Durocher protested the game in the third inning after the Cubs had tied the score 1-1 on a run-scoring double by Glenn Beckert.

With runners on second and third and two out, Billy Williams hit a pop fly toward third base. Allen, instead of moving around runner Ron Campbell, tried to push Campbell off the base to make the play.

The ball dropped safely but the umpires ruled Campbell was out because of interference. Durocher then registered his protest on the ground "there is no rule in the book that a runner has to leave his base and allow a fielder to make a play."

Until the National League rules on the matter, the Phillies will remain the winners.
